The Beheaded Marshal.

Davidson is a man of mixed fortune. The lucky and the unlucky combine in his case in admirable alternation. Two years ago he was lucky enough to get the nomination of his party for Congress in the 4th District, and so unlucky as to be badly beaten. His martyrdom, however, at the hands of the people, put him in luck again, for Mr. Buchanan, in consideration of it, conferred upon him the post of U. S. Marshal. When Douglas made war upon the Administration, Davidson attempted the difficult feat of carrying water upon both shoulders. The experiment kept him in a state of constant turmoil from the day he began it until one fine morning, last week, he woke up to find himself minus his official head. That was an exceedingly unlucky day for Davidson. He travelled mightily in spirit. But the wheel turned, and his luck came uppermost again. His executive martyrdom secured him, a second time, the Douglas nomination for Congress in the 4th District. It was his turn to be lucky, and his luck will continue until the 2d of November, when it will again be his turn to be unlucky. Davidson has great reason to be thankful that he is a lucky man—the public have the same reason to be thankful that his luck is always of brief duration.

Easing the Fall.

When a prominent political trickster begins to realize that he will have leave to retire from his field of patriotic (?) toil, his followers at once begin to frame excuses for declining his defeat. This we learn is being done by some of the most intimate friends of Mr. Douglas. They think that after the excessive toil which he has undergone for the last twenty years, it would be well for him "to make the tour of Europe." His present active exercise (under canvass) of riding the two famous trick horses, Popular Sovereignty and Dred Scott, they say, is wearing him down rapidly, instead of acting as a restorative to his jaded energies. He needs travel and the repose which it brings. To outsiders he appears to be in robust condition, but his more intimate friends are undoubtedly alarmed on account of his—health! We would not be surprised if Mr. Douglas should shortly again pay his respects to the Emperor of Russia.

The State Fair.

The State Fair will open at Centralia on Tuesday next, and continue through the week. We can add nothing to the information as to the arrangements and prospects of the Fair which has already appeared in our columns, and only refer to it now to remind all who mean to present articles for exhibition that no time is to be lost in sending them forward, if not already sent, and to urge upon all who can spare the time to attend. Egypt will be specially represented on this occasion, and it is due to her, in consideration of past neglect, and failure to appreciate her wonderful capacities, that people from all other sections of the State should be there to do her full justice. All the railroads will carry passengers, destined for the Fair, at half the usual rates, and stock and other articles free.

Convention of Wisconsin Bankers—Inaccessible Banks Required to Redeem.

A convention of the Bankers of Wisconsin was in session at Milwaukee on Wednesday and Thursday. It was unanimously resolved by the Convention, that the banks of circulation in that State located at inaccessible points should be required to redeem their circulating notes after the first day of October next, at Madison or Milwaukee; and this arrangement was agreed to by the banks of circulation represented. A constitution was also adopted for an Association of the Banks of Wisconsin, which constitution was subscribed to by forty-five Banks, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Alexander Mitchell; Directors—M. S. Scott, C. D. Nash, G. C. Northrop, Samuel Marshall, Andrew Proudfit, J. L. Kimball, D. Vandercook, K. A. Darling, A. L. Pritchard.

Such Banks as were not represented in the Convention were requested to join the Association as soon as convenient.

☞ Gov. Bissell has appointed Josiah Francis, Esq., Quartermaster General of the Illinois Militia, in the place of John Cook, resigned.

☞ Since Douglas brought up the milk question, it has been proposed to call his followers the "stump-tail" Democracy.

Congressional Nominations.

The two wings of the Democracy—Nationals and Douglas "Stump-tails"—held Congressional Conventions yesterday at Bloomington. The former recommended Churchill Coffing, and the latter nominated Geo. W. Armstrong. The whole affair seems to have been a most ridiculous fizzle.

The Reform School.

Editors Press and Tribune:

The short item in your yesterday's issue headed "Information Wanted," having made somewhat public a matter that has heretofore created considerable sensation in a large private circle, there is a disposition now to state a few more facts connected with the affair, that the public may be set right, and honest intention vindicated. In July, 1857, the boy (about whom the controversy is, a lad of eleven years) becoming connected with other bad boys, of about the same age, committed an act criminal and inexcusable in itself, for which his parents and friends thought it wise he should go to the Reform School, having no doubt that such a course would be best for the lad and all concerned. No period was named for his release, it being understood that this was to be nearly or quite at the option of the parents. The lad remained until January, but for weeks previous dissatisfaction had been expressed to the Superintendent and Board in regard to his condition and health. The Board repeatedly denied that they had power to discharge except on recommendation of the Superintendent, but being made acquainted with the facts, and the anxiety of his friends, expressed themselves that a discharge ought to be granted. The Superintendent refused to recommend, and a formal discharge was not made. After great difficulty a permit was obtained to return home for a day, the lad promising to go back. Upon solemn council of all the friends (including the well-known family physician,) the case was such as to leave no doubt of its being contrary to all dictates of reason and prudence to return him there. Again the Board were consulted, the lad's garments and other evidence of his wretched condition shown them, when those of the Board present expressed themselves strongly that he ought not to be returned. He remained with his parents in a precarious state the rest of the winter, and since. Affidavit of the above facts can be made if required. The family physician will make proof that the lad had such a filthy disease about him (contracted in the institution) that he could not have lived but a few weeks had he remained. He recovered after months of assiduous care. No intimation has been made, (till Wednesday last,) that he was expected to return. The case was so clear that, considering the expressed opinion of members of the Board at the time, the discharge was deemed virtual if not formal. No pains have been thought of to conceal the lad since, not the least. [The family lived upon a principal street upon the West Side.] Whatever others may think, friends feel that they know the lad's life to be due to his not being returned. They were greatly surprised therefore that last Wednesday an attempt should be made to return him to the institution upon the old charge (caused no doubt by the many recent escapes.) In a just outburst of indignation some of the females of the family sought to prevent the arrest, (not knowing the consequences,) for which the father, who was present, (as sober and quiet a citizen as there is in Chicago,) was mulcted in a small fine at the Police Court. Such are the unvarnished facts, to which the writer will only add an opinion that, our Reform School is in theory one of our wisest institutions, but that such cases as the above, when honest people are pursued as it were maliciously, tend to injure the School and lessen the confidence of the public in its merits. La Crosse Railroad Bonds.

The following statement has been issued by the Trustees of the La Crosse Land Grant bonds:

For the information of the holders of what are called the "Land Grant Bonds" of the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad, we deem it proper to state, that the Trustees have registered and countersigned bonds to the amount of four millions of dollars, and no more. The bonds of $1,000 each are numbered from 1 to 3,950, and those of $500 each are numbered from 1 to 100. The modified trust deeds provides, in effect, against any further issue of bonds, which shall interfere with the prior lien of the present bondholders on the road, with its appurtenances, from Portage City to La Crosse; and no bonds affecting such prior lien will be countersigned by the Trustees.

Overland Mail Line to the Pacific.

The new wagon route from St. Louis and Memphis to San Francisco, is to be opened on the 16th inst. The rates of fare for the present will be as follows:

Between the Pacific Railroad terminus and San Francisco, either way, through tickets $200. Local fares between Fort Smith and Fort Yuma not less than ten cents per mile for the distance traveled. Between Fort Yuma and San Francisco, and between Fort Smith and the railroad terminus, the rates will be published by the Superintendents of those divisions. The meals and provisions for passengers are at their own expense, and over and above the regular fare. It is intended, however, by the company to have suitable meals at proper places and at moderate cost prepared for passengers as soon as they can complete their arrangements. Forty pounds of baggage will be allowed to each passenger; but the company will not at present transport any through extra baggage, freights or parcels. The time allowed between St. Louis and San Francisco is 577 hours, or 23 days and 5 hours.

One Hundred and Fifty Persons Precipitated through the Floors of a Building—One Killed and many badly Injured.

[From the Toronto Leader, 7th.]

On Wednesday evening last an incident occurred at an election meeting in Tilsonburg, which, we regret to say, has been attended with fatal results. It appears from the details that have reached us, that the meeting was called by the friends of Dr. Connor, and that as Mr. Foley was about retiring, after occupying the attention of the audience for several hours, the floor in the upper part of the room suddenly gave way, carrying along with it about one hundred and fifty people.

The floor underneath proved itself unequal to withstand so great and so sudden a weight, and that, too, instantly gave way, precipitating the unfortunate sufferers into the room below, making a total fall of some twenty-four feet! The scene that ensued it is impossible to describe. A mass of human beings in imminent danger of smothering, and for a few moments incapable of receiving any assistance, lay in darkness, groaning under bruises and broken limbs, and all that had not become insensible from the fall madly endeavoring to extricate themselves.

The news of the calamity spread like wildfire, and in a few minutes wives and sisters were frantically calling on husbands and brothers who were known to be among the sufferers. Aid was not long in arriving, and the whole community turned out with a speed and a zeal worthy all commendation, to lend their assistance in rescuing the sufferers. Mr. Smith, the Reeve of Dereham, and Mr. Van Norman were honorably conspicuous for the energy they manifested on the occasion, although scores of others also emulated them in the good work.

The result of these labors of mercy was the early extrication of all the sufferers, many of whom were taken out with no other injuries than a severe fright and a few bruises. Others, however, perhaps to the number of nearly thirty, were very severely contused, some indeed, it is feared, fatally.

It is our painful duty to add, that in the case of one person, when taken out, life was found to be quite extinct. The person whose earthly career has thus so suddenly been closed, was Mr. Hopkins, a carpenter.

Frightened Off the Track.

John Monroe, the Douglas nominee for Representative in the Coles and Moultrie district, has been taken off the course. Several reasons are assigned for this movement. One report says that he took a "shy" at Douglas' Freeport speech, and put into the tall grass. Another says that he had ceased to take any interest in politics, and had concluded to go into virtuous retirement. We have not learned the name of his successor.—Urbana Union.

The Board of Foreign Missions.

DETROIT, Sept. 10—FOURTH DAY.—Stirring addresses were delivered last night in two churches. Business was finished and a farewell meeting held at eight o'clock this morning. Rev. W. M. Thomson, D. D., will soon return to Syria. He, with Rev. Mr. Grout, of South Africa, made affecting addresses. Dr. Anderson, in behalf of the Board, thanked the citizens of Detroit for their hospitalities and took leave. Dr. Duffield responded, thanking the Board for meeting here. Dr. Bacon pronounced an affecting benediction, and the Board adjourned to next year.

Another Free-Love Convention—Rutland Outdone.

UTICA, Sept. 10.—This Convention assembled here this A. M., and are diligently engaged in overcoming evil with good. A. J. Davis nominated the officers. A. J. Davis read the order of business, and A. J. Davis made the opening address. The forenoon was occupied by his speech. In the afternoon, session, Mary Davis presented a series of woman's rights resolutions of the usual character, which were adopted. A strong tone of free-loveism is perceptible in all the speeches. Thus far it smells stronger of filth than the Rutland Convention.

The Canada.

HALIFAX, Sept. 10.—The steamship Canada from Boston, arrived here at 10 o'clock last night, and sailed again at 10 o'clock this morning for Liverpool.

Arrival of the Asia.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—The steamship Asia is below and will be at her dock about midnight. Her mails will be due in New-York at 3 P. M. to-morrow.

THE CITY.

A Fact for Advertisers.

The present regular Daily circulation of the PRESS AND TRIBUNE exceeds nine thousand, and the Weekly edition has reached seventeen thousand five hundred. No Chicago paper approaches half this circulation.

☞ Yesterday was the occasion of the grand celebration at "Put in Bay," Lake Erie, commemorative of Perry's Victory, and in aid of the Perry Monument Fund.

BOYS' CLASSICAL SCHOOL.—The scholastic year of T. W. Bruce's Classical School, on the corner of Van Buren street and Edina Place, opens on Monday next. Mr. Bruce has an institution which holds a prominent place in excellence among our private institutions of learning.

AN ELEGANT PRESENT.—We saw yesterday a superb gold mounted ebony cane, presented to Col. James W. Davidson, late U. S. Marshal for this District, by the employees in his office. It was the workmanship of Messrs. Carter & Cabery, and does them and the donors infinite credit.

A MOST DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR.—The Tabernacle Baptist and the Canal street Mission Sabbath Schools are to start for a railroad and pic nic excursion on the Rock Island Railroad to New Lenox on Saturday morning at 9¼ o'clock. Friends wishing to join are invited to be at the depot on Van Buren street, at 9 o'clock A. M.

PERSONAL.—Among the arrivals at the Richmond House, are Dr. Charles King, President of Columbia College, N. Y.; Dr. Rae, the Arctic explorer, Lord Cavendish, Hon. E. Ashley, son of Lord Shaftesbury, Lord Robert Grosvenor, Hon. Mr. Ellice, and Hon. M. Portman, England, John Young, Vice President of Great Western Railroad, and E. Thomas and family, Hamilton.

DR. EALING LEAVES SOON.—From Dr. Ealing's card in another column, it will be seen that he leaves here in a few days. He has been operating on many of our citizens in the most satisfactory manner, as will be seen by their testimonials, which we publish. The skill of Dr. Ealing astonished every one who has been fortunate enough to obtain his superior surgical skill in the removing of corns, &c., from the feet. These tormenting evils are so speedily extracted that the patient believes that it has been done by a charm, instead of a surgical operation. No one need be afraid of pain, as it neither cuts or gives the slighest sensation of pain.

FIRE IN THE WEST DIVISION—HORSES AND MULES DESTROYED.—About 2 o'clock yesterday morning, fire was discovered in the brick stable owned by Charles Walker, Esq., situated between Mather and Sebor streets, east of Canal, in the West Division. The fire department was promptly on hand, but the combustible nature of the contents of the building rendered all attempts to preserve it futile, and their efforts were directed to saving the adjoining buildings. Three valuable mules, valued at $1,000, and two horses worth $400, were consumed, together with harness, hay, etc., making the total loss about $2,000, on which there is no insurance. The mules and horses were owned by Chas. H. Walker.

PLAYING THE DETECTIVE GAME.—A chap wearing the unusual name of Brown came to this city some time since, and going to one of the detective offices, represented himself as a police officer attached to the staff of Marshal Gallagher, of Cleveland, stating that he was here in pursuit of a woman from that city who had stolen $1,100, and who was supposed to be in Chicago. All the assistance he asked was promptly rendered. A man was detailed to assist him, in company with whom he rode about the city for some days, with a horse and buggy from the stable of Platt & Howe. His search was unavailing, and he finally concluded that she had gone South, whither he followed her.

It has been ascertained by letters from Joliet that Mr. Brown has been doing, certain parties in that city very "brown," on the strength of his representations that he was one of Cyrus P. Bradley's detective force of this city. The fellow has been traveling and subsisting upon the same dodge, skillfully varied, for some time past, and various parts of the Northwest.

MELANCHOLY CASUALTY—FATAL ACCIDENT FROM CARELESS AT MADISON STREET BRIDGE.—Yesterday morning, James Hickey, an Irishman, about 40 years of age, who in attempting to step from Madison street bridge, while it was swinging, was caught between the railings of the approach and the bridge, and so severely crushed as to cause his death in about an hour. The accident occurred about 6½ o'clock, as the deceased was going to his work. He was cared for by the bridge-tender, and conveyed to his house on Market street, near Van Buren, where he died about 7½ o'clock. The Coroner held an inquest, when a verdict was returned in accordance with the fact.

Hickey leaves a wife and five children, the oldest only 12 years old, with no relations or friends and in the most humble circumstances. As far as can be ascertained, he was a man of temperate habits; and the family are said to be as worthy as they are known to be in need of aid.

THE INDIANA COUNTERFEITERS—THE "LAST OF THE MOHICANS" DELIVERED TO THE REGULATORS.—The readers of the journals of the country at large, and particularly those of the West and Northwest, will remember the sensation that was created when an outraged and indignant community banded together in an association which was at once a terror to the daring violators of law, and under the name of the "Indiana Regulators" routed and put to flight the lurking gangs of counterfeiters which had infested Noble, Lagrange and other counties in Northern Indiana. Their proceedings were prompt, these Regulators. They burst upon their men like lightning out of a summer cloud. McDougal and others were hung, many were brought to justice at the hands of the courts, while others who could do so fled.

It is in search of some of these latter that the best detective skill of the West has been at work since that time. Cyrus P. Bradley, of this city, has been in the service of the Regulators to bring to justice some of the most noted of these men, especially three of them who were more sought after than perhaps any others.

"Bill Hill" is a middle-aged thorough paced scoundrel, long known to the police of this region and in this city, where years ago, as our older residents will remember, he figured in the forged $100 Illinois Canal Scrip with Otis Allen, Trowbridge and others. He was living at the opening of the "Regulator" era, not far from the Michigan line, a neighbor and chum of the noted Latta, and was widely known to the trade in that description of merchandise as a sure source of the the "hard stuff," in fact a regular manufacturer and vender of bogus coin.

Perry Randolph and George Ulmer were not less deeply engaged and implicated in the paper trade, and in the barn of the latter, in a bin of chaff, was found after he had taken to a timely flight, a first class press, used in bank note printing.

There was a desire among our Indiana friends amounting indeed to a passion, to gain back to their borders these three men.

Officer Bradley has worked for months at the affair, and on July 9th arrested at Warren, Ohio, the two men, Randolph and Ulmer, delivering them two days later, safely into the hands of the Sheriff of Lagrange Co., Indiana. Their arrest was kept as private as possible, to prevent its having a bearing upon Hill's case, after whom the quest was diligently kept up.

"Bill Hill" was arrested a few days since in Upper Missouri, by officers Bradley and Chas. E. Smith of this city, and brought hither, being yesterday sent forward to Indiana.

Mr. Bradley has traveled over four thousand miles in search of this Hill, and found him at last in a sequestered haunt, where after a stout and dangerous tussle, Hill, who had vowed to die rather than be taken, was captured and ironed. In his pocket were found slips cut from newspapers, briefly announcing the arrest of Ulmer and Randolph, to which little publicity had been given—a circumstance that establishes the fact how sharply rogues at large read the newspapers.

Hill was armed, and though past middle life, is a desperate and dangerous fellow to deal with. He has a wife and child in Iowa, but his former mistress in Indiana was sharing his Missouri retreat.

These three arrests, though not exactly the last of the counterfeiters that infested our neighboring State, are nevertheless to be characterized as the capture of the last of the more noted of the gang, or rather combinations of gangs.

The Mechanics' Institute.

NOTES OF THE FAIR.

Additions have been made daily to the number of articles on exhibition at the Fair, and throughout the week the attendance during the day and evening has been good, evincing that the public appreciate the Institute, and that the Institute has achieved a success the present year, the more remarkable, inasmuch as the hard pressure of the money panic has done much to retard manufactures and depress the labor of our mechanics.

The Fair certainly exceeds any of its predecessors in the interest, inseparable from having its greatest attractions almost exclusively of Chicago manufacture.

It does not disparage or undervalue the merits of contributions of articles from abroad, to say that while all praise and strict justice should be awarded to each, a preference and pride should be, and is inevitable, whenever our own manufactures are seen to stand superior or even equal to such importations.

Prominent in the centre of the hall stands a Sewing Machine, in invention and in manufacture, from the graceful patterns of the castings to the gilded and glittering surface,—a Chicago institution. It occupies a closed case, and is not entered for competition among Sewing Machines, hence is not in operation.

It is invented by Messrs. Bennett, Broderick & Co., of this city, and constructed after designs by them, by our Chicago mechanics, who, in this, the first machine, have turned out a piece of highly finished workmanship.

The inventors enter the field against all competitors, claiming to be ready to defend the position they assume of having the best machine, and as a Chicago affair exclusively, we describe it and their claims.

It gives the interlocked stitch of Wheeler & Wilson, Singer, et. al., and is a shuttle machine.

One of its peculiarities is the novel manner in which it accomplishes or imparts to the needle the required movements of a Shuttle Sewing Machine, necessary to form the loop in the upper thread and allow the shuttle to pass through without friction, viz.: by a wheel crank having a connection with a rocker, the vibration of which very ingeniously accomplishes what has up to the present day required every variety of machinery, and in most cases very cumbersome and noisy, which require great power to put in motion. In this machine this movement, and also that which imparts motion to the shuttle, which is a connection leading from the other side of wheel crank to rocker, underneath the machine, operates without the slightest noise whatever.

Another peculiarity is the manner of accomplishing what is commonly known as the check or thread adjusting arrangement which here is an eye or thread guide upon the connection from the rocker to the needle bar. The rocker having in its vibration the movement required for this purpose, it is claimed as an improvement upon the various styles of mechanism designed to act in this respect. It is free from the faults of complicated levers, springs, &c., and also of the noise of the same. It operates very easily and regularly, thereby avoiding any jerking upon the thread. In short, this rocker in its noiseless passes performs the two most important requisites of the shuttle machine.

The feed motion is imparted by two parts being acted upon by a small projection upon the rocker, one portion of this is made of two pieces secured by a brass nut, double acting, and answering all the requisities and accomplishes all that can be by a distinct feed motion in combination with what is known as the yielding pressure, and will adjust to any degree of thickness of goods at the will of the operator.

The thread from the spool passes over a circular plate with an index upon it, and works to a charm as a means of imparting a tension upon the upper thread. The tension upon the lower or shuttle thread is derived in the usual manner, but the bobbin is inserted in the shuttle in a new and ingenious manner.

This machine attracted much attention in the Fair, but chiefly of course from its being incomplete, not as intelligent and satisfactory, as we are confident it would have been if well operated. We learn it is the present intention of the proprietors to manufacture these machines in this city.

From the Sewing Machine we passed to another beautiful and notable proof of Chicago handiwork, a magnificent silver-plated show-case, from the warerooms of Messrs. A. J. Campbell & Co., 63 Dearborn street, and which reflects great credit upon its makers, from the handsome and workmanlike manner in which it is finished. Messrs. Campbell & Co. are the only show-case manufacturers west of New York who make everything connected with the business on their own premises, it having been and being still customary with all others to send to New York for the metal frames of which these cases are made, but which, as also metal sashes, &c., Messrs. Campbell & Co. now manufacture in this city. Altogether their establishment turns out work not to be excelled, if equalled, by any house in the United States.

Messrs. E. P. Marsh & Co. exhibit Lyon's Patent Copper Lightning Conductors.

George W. Hannis, from his manufactory, 97 Kinzie street, sends Copper and Iron Rods, in various styles, also points, tops, &c., and a patent Gutta Percha Insulator.

Messrs. Pearson & Dana contribute a well-filled show case of elegant and tasteful feet gear.

Our friend, Dr. J. V. Z. Blaney, of the Chicago Chemical Works, exhibits a variety of chemicals, and some astonishing and beautiful crystals.

Mason & McArthur exhibit a machine for re-sawing.

G. C. Thomas has an attractive display of billiard materials in turned ivory, &c.

Messrs. S. D. Child & Son contribute an array of proofs of their well known skill as engravers and stencil cutters.

Messrs. Gerts & Co., send a beautiful and wonderful variety of brushes of all sizes, classes, and kinds.

Charles Stephens imitates the minutest configurations and decorations of marble, and as a Grainer and Painter passes a pine slab off for the best Sienna, or Dorset, most excellently well.

John Clark & Son send a weather strip and window fastener of their invention, and which they are manufacturing.

George W. Hatch, of Princeton, Bureau Co., contributes what competent judges pronounced in our hearing "one of the most wonderful things on exhibition," in samples of various kinds of leather tanned by his "Vegetable Quick Tanning Process," now being extensively introduced by the inventor. By this process he is enabled to tan calf-skins in from 36 hours to 12 days, upper leather in 6 to 20 days, according to desire. Heavier stock, as harness, sole leather, &c., as quick, according to thickness, and by which the tanner is able to make the very best quality of leather in softness, plumpness, solidity, weight and condition for turning water, and for service and beauty. The leather is certainly worth seeing.

A. Wright Turner, agent of the New York Oil Comdany, exhibits twenty-five varieties of oils and lubricants from his establishment, corner of Franklin and South Water street.

J. H. Gerould, of Clark street, fills a large hanging space over the platform, with a beautiful and almost endless variety of gas fixtures, gasaliers, etc.

E. Kuschinsky, of the West Division, sends specimens of his skill in wrought iron furniture, tastefully and richly upholstered.

Conrad Gise exhibits a richly carved secretary.

The Fair is especially attractive in the evening, and a novel and beautiful effect is secured to the edifice at this time by the brilliant effect of three locomotive head-lights (of Hamblen's Chicago manufacture), arranged vertically at equal distances on the front and spire of the edifice, the highest being eighty feet above the street.

The Institute will remain open another week, and none of our readers should lose the opportunity it presents for amusement and instruction.

Our notes on Monday will complete the exhibition of the main hall.

HIDES.—The Chicago Hide and Leather Company have offered a premium of $10 for the three best Green Hides, that are freest from cuts, dirt and blood. The premium will be awarded on Monday morning next, at nine o'clock. Competitors will have their articles at the Mechanics' Institute Hall at that time.

PROPOSED DISSOLUTION OF THE FIREMEN'S BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.—The members of this Association hold a meeting on the 22d instant, at their Hall in the Armory Building, to decide on the distribution of the fund, and surrender the charter of the Association.

THIRD PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—We learn that the Trustees of the Third Presbyterian Church, Rev. TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Judge Bowlin has accepted the mission to Paraguay.

Captain A. H. Adams relieves Commander Thorburn, who is transferred to the steam frigate St. Louis.

It is said in anti Lecompton circles at Washington, that Senator Gwin and the St. Louis Republican will support Douglas.

Receipts into the Treasury last week were nearly $1,682,000, an increase over the previous week of $255,000. The amount on deposit is $14,500,000, of which $10,123,000 is in New York; $174,000 has been ordered to be transferred. The Secretary of the Treasury has issued new general regulations, in which he says that no subordinate officer of the Customs can be removed or appointed without his previous sanction. Incompetency or neglect of duty is to be reported to him for consideration and action.

Hereafter in all cases when parties allege to have claims for the return of duties paid in error, illegal exactions, a otherwise, the application must be made direct to the Treasury Department by the owners or importers, on receipt of which a report of the case, when requisite, will be called for from the Collector, and upon its examination the decision of the Department will be rendered. The Secretary also directs that the value of sugar imported from Cuba be ascertained and appraised without reference to the packages in which it is contained, whether boxes or hogsheads, and to this value shall be added the cost of the packages.

Capt. Hammond has been ordered on duty as Inspector of Ordnance, vice Capt. Adams, ordered to the Sabine.

A board of officers has been ordered to convene at an early day at Washington Arsenal to ascertain by trial the best patent primer for small-arms. The Board consists of Captain Georgias and Brevet Major Laidley, of Ordnance, Capt. Pickett, Lieut. Otis, of the Infantry, and Lieut. Maury of the mounted riflemen.

From Arizona and the Plains.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10.—Colonel Sayles, agent of the Post Office Department, arrived here yesterday from Arizona, and reports the existence of a very lawless state of things in that country, pistols and bowie-knives being the only law recognized. Indian depredations are very frequent.

Sayles speaks favorably of the mineral resources of the Territory, but the annexation of Sonora is of the utmost importance to its successful development.

The El Paso and Fort Yuma wagon-road expedition will complete their work in November.

The agents of the California Overland Mail Company were to meet early in August, west of the Rio Grande, and are now busily engaged in establishing stations and making arrangements to enter upon the service this month.

A new military post is to be established on the San Pedro, in Arizona, to keep the Indians in check.

"Fort Buchanan" will probably be removed to Santa Cruz Valley from New Mexico.

Col. Sayles reports the difficulty with the Navajo Indians as still unsettled. Gen. Garland has assured them that the murderers of Major Brooks' servant must be given up, and in view of the pending troubles, he had ordered Col. Miles from Fort Fillmore to Fort Defiance.

Major Backus' command of recruits crossed Walnut Creek, en route for Fort Union, on the 27th ult. Judge Boone, of Philadelphia, recently appointed Judge of New Mexico, left Independence for Santa Fe on the 5th.

Leavenworth Election—Mormons Killed by Indians, &c.

[Per U. S. Express to Boonville.]

LEAVENWORTH, Sept. 7.—Orders have been received for two companies of the 1st Cavalry from Col. Sumner's command, under Maj. Emory, to proceed to Arbuckle.

Our municipal election was held here yesterday. Great excitement prevailed, but no serious disturbance occurred. Hampton B. Denman (Free State Democrat) was elected by about 200 majority. Lyman Scott (Republican) and Adam Fish (Republican Bolter) were the opposing candidates.

The Salt Lake mail has arrived, having been 21 days en route. The Mormons were orderly, and the U. S. officers attending to their business. As soon as the Associate Judges would arrive, the trial for treason would commence. No arrests had yet been made. The Indians were very troublesome about Salt Lake City, and had killed several Mormons. One family was massacred while moving south. Dr. Forney, Indian Agent, was out among the tribes making treaties, and had been successful. The engineers were out locating the four posts on the western division of the mail route.

Suicide—Staten Island—Heavy Failure.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Edward Tucker, the engineer of the train of cars on the New Haven Railroad, that went through the drawbridge at the loss of life, committed suicide by bleeding last night. He leaves a wife and children at Troy.

The Commissioners of Health are about to raise $300,000 for the rebuilding of the hospitals.

Some half dozen obnoxious individuals were burned in effigy last night by the Staten Island mob. An attack was anticipated by the police, who were preparing for it. The Roman candles fired off by the crowd attracted attention on board the frigate Sabine, and 100 men were sent ashore. They were not needed, however, as no other disturbance than as above noted occurred.

A heavy failure in the coffee and sugar trade is reported, liabilities $300,000, assets large.

New York State Politics.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 10.—The Republican and American State Conventions, after a session of two days, adjourned without effecting an union. Each nominated a separate ticket.

New Advertisements.

Falsehood vs. Facts.—A Malicious and designing card, by A. G. Bragg, extensively advertised throughout the country, in effect says: "The present proprietors of the Mexican Mustang Liniment being unprincipled men, they do not make the said Liniment as good as it formerly was, and that he (B) will not be responsible for its effects," "cautioning the public against its use," &c. This means us—Barnes and Park of New York, and J. D. Park, of Cincinnati. We have been somewhat known to the public of the United States for a number of years; we do not fear to vindicate our reputation, we should consider the endorsement of this Mr. Bragg a very equivocal compliment.

His statement implies motive—either as a public benefactor (?) or to further a private interest. Which is it? This said Bragg was, at one time, partner in the Mustang Liniment, made celebrated by the originator, Mr. G. W. Westbrook, and the [illegible] Bragg had nothing to do. Mr. W. paid Mr. B. $50,000 for his half interest in the article. Of course, the implied and covenanted consideration for such an amount of money was, that "he, Bragg, should not forever, in any manner, directly or indirectly, be interested in manufacturing or selling any Liniment, Ointment or Salve." Mr. Westbrook was heavily engaged in outside business. To protect his property and pay Bragg he offered to sell this Liniment. We knew the value of the article, made the advances, held the cancelled notes in full—Bragg's receipt in full for $50,000—and became owner's of the Liniment. We took immediate means to examine its recipe, protect its purity, increase its sale, etc. We believed then, as now, that no advertisement was as cheap as a really good medicine, and that our interest lay directly in reaching the interest of the consumers. This Liniment always popular, was ever sold to the same attention as now. The very best materials are used—the recipe is alone ours.

In less than six months from our purchase of the Liniment, Mr. Bragg entered the market with an imitation and counterfeit article, under another name. We presented his contract of sale; he scouted the moral obligation, and cloaked his legal position by doing business under the name of his son. He has struggled for some time, unable to make his article sell. It is not liked: people say, "it has no virtue." Is not his failure at imposture and the immense success of our Liniment the exciting occasion of this last (disinterested) public appeal? The public are not interested between Barnes and Park and A. G. Bragg, but they are interested in the genuine purity of an article of such universal necessity as this Liniment. Will you be imposed upon? We have remained quiet; he mistakes the cause and treads close. We warn him of the results; if he proceeds further I will be when we cannot perceive villainy, and when we dare not punish its perpetrator, and protect our rights.

We manufacture the original, genuine Mustang Liniment. We are responsible for its effects. Respectfully, BARNES & PARK. se11a811 d3&w2w New York and Cincinnati.

Douglas and the Toombs' Bill.

The charge fastened upon Judge Douglas by Senator Trumbull, of having stricken from the Toombs' Bill the clause requiring a submission of the Kansas Constitution to a [illegible] mer. All our readers remember the paroxysm of rage into which he flew when he first referred to it in his speech at Beardstown. Trumbull, in the elegant vocabulary of Douglas, was a liar, a sneak, and a craven-hearted wretch, and would rather have both his ears taken off than make such a charge in his (Douglas) presence. In his subsequent speeches he met the charge in a similar way, offering no proof, whatever, to substantiate his denials. But at Jacksonville the people were not to be put off so. Senator Trumbull had but recently spoken there, and had adduced such proofs in support of his charge, that when Douglas came his friends told him that unless he had some better defence to offer for his action in regard to the Toombs' Bill, than to say that Trumbull is a liar and a craven-hearted wretch, it was all over with him there. Still he shrunk from alluding to the subject, and was about to leave the stand when he was called upon to make answer to the charge of his colleague.

Being thus pressed, he reluctantly entered upon his defense. His first mode of meeting it was to assert, that from the days of Washington to Pierce there had never been a bill passed by Congress requiring any constitution to be submitted to the people. But he forgot to state that from the days of Washington down to the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, there never had been an attempt on the part of either the National Executive, the Democratic party, or party leaders, to force a constitution upon a people contrary to their wishes. In all past legislation upon this subject, there had never been occasion for a clause requiring submission. In the case of Kansas, the necessity for it was manifest. Mr. Toombs incorporated such a clause into his bill; that bill was referred to a committee of which Mr. Douglas was chairman. When he reported it back the clause had been stricken out, and in his speech in the Senate, on the 7th of December, 1857, Mr. Douglas stated that he and Mr. Toombs had made the alteration upon consultation. This attempt to dodge behind past legislation, therefore, does not shield Mr. Douglas from the charge. Especially is the weakness of the argument manifest when it is understood, that about the same time Mr. Douglas struck the submission clause from the Kansas bill, where it was imperatively demanded to shield the people from oppression, he was engaged in incorporating a submission clause into the Minnesota bill where there was no apparent necessity for it.

Mr. Douglas evidently perceived the weakness of his argument, for he suddenly dropt it, and boldly declared that there was no clause requiring submission in the original Toombs bill, and therefore, he could not have struck out what was never in it. This is simply a mean and contemptible quibble. That its meanness and falsity may be apparent to our readers, we once more copy the clause as it stood in the Toombs bill, and the same clause after its emasculation by Mr. Douglas:

FROM TOOMBS' BILL.	FROM TOOMBS' BILL AS REPORTED BACK BY DOUGLAS.
"That the following propositions be and the same are hereby offered to the said Convention of the people of Kansas, when formed, for their free acceptance or rejection, which, if accepted by the Convention, AND RATIFIED BY THE PEOPLE AT THE ELECTION FOR THE ADOPTION OF THE CONSTITUTION, shall be obligatory on the United States, and upon the said State of Kansas," &c.	"That the following propositions be and the same are hereby offered to the said Convention of the people of Kansas, when formed for their free acceptance or rejection, which, if accepted by the Convention, shall be obligatory on the United States, and upon the said State of Kansas," &c.

The best kind of sense is common sense, and we therefore appeal from the pettifogging quibble of Douglas, who says that the above clause in the Toombs' bill, which he struck out, did not require the submission of the Kansas Constitution—we appeal, we say, from this quibble of Douglas, to the common sense of the people. If it were possible for the Convention to submit the land ordinance, &c., referred to in the clause, without also submitting the Constitution to the people of Kansas, then there is no meaning in language, and every law upon the statute books is a nullity.

But the greatest piece of effrontery exhibited by the Senator in his poor apology for a defence, was in the allegation that if the clause was not in the bill as reported back by him, SENATOR TRUMBULL ought to have put it in! Never was there an iceberg cooler than that. Senator Trumbull opposed the Toombs bill as reported back for various objections which he urged against it. His object was to defeat it. He spoke against it, he voted against it, and in every possible way, from first to last, opposed its passage. Now, here comes Mr. Douglas, with his own admission on record in the Congressional Globe, that he had stricken the clause requiring submission from the Toombs bill, and when arraigned before his constituents for the offence, instead of pleading to the charge, he says, "If the clause was not there when I reported it back, why did not TRUMBULL put it there?" In other words, Mr. Douglas is not to be held responsible by the people of Illinois for his acts as Senator; he may do violence to the interests or principles of his immediate constituents, or of the people of Kansas, at pleasure, and no man has the right to call him to account for it; and whatever villainies he may choose to perpetrate, it is all right, so far as he is concerned, "but that fellow, TRUMBULL, must not be let off so easily; the craven-hearted wretch, why did he not prevent me from doing it?"

The argument of Douglas on this subject in his speech at Jacksonville, as reported in the Times, is as follows:

1. He was justified in striking the submission clause from the Toombs bill, because no such clause had been passed by Congress from the days of Washington down to the administration of Pierce.

2. There was no clause requiring submission in the original Toombs bill, therefore he could not have stricken such a clause from it.

3. If he did strike it out, Trumbull must be held responsible for the act, because he (Trumbull) was there and ought to have put it in again!

That is all there is of Douglas' defence at Jacksonville. Most lame and impotent in all its parts, we do not wonder that it was not until he had been prompted by the crowd that he could be induced to enter upon it. As it was, he got off of this branch of the subject as quickly as possible, devoting the most of his time to the addition which he made to the eleventh section of the Toombs bill, by which the Convention was excluded from submitting the Constitution to a vote of the people. This addition he concedes was made to the bill, but he spent half an hour in proving that it was stricken out before it passed the Senate. Mr. Trumbull, however, had not charged that it was in the bill as it passed the Senate, but that it was in it when reported back by Mr. Douglas. The following are his words:

> The Toombs bill did not pass in the exact shape in which Judge Douglas reported it. Several amendments were made to it in the Senate. I am now dealing with the action of Judge Douglas as connected with that bill, and speak of the bill as he recommended it.

So Mr. Douglas wasted his words to no purpose. He was only fighting a man of straw. The charge of Senator Trumbull remains untouched. Douglas stands before the people of Illinois convicted of the attempt to force a pro-slavery constitution upon the people of Kansas. The official documents by which the charge is sustained are in our possession and open to the inspection of any one who desires to see them. We again remind every needy Democrat that we offer $1,000 reward to the man who will bring forward satisfactory rebutting proof.

A Day at the Meeting of the American Board.

A correspondent is giving to our readers a brief account of the doings of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions at their meeting in Detroit. As this Association of learned jurists and venerable divines were holding their sessions so near us, we determined to look in upon them ourselves, and as we have always had the highest respect for them, and confidence in the work in which they are engaged, it was a privilege which we highly prized to witness their proceedings. [illegible] D. D., President of Williams College, is the President of this venerable institution, and as one of those who enjoyed his instructions, years ago, his presence alone would have enticed us to Detroit.

The forenoon of Thursday was spent mainly in hearing reports of committees to whom had been referred various portions of the annual report of the Prudential Committee. The reports were all favorable, and some earnest speeches were made in reference to the facts which they suggested.

In the afternoon two of the largest churches in Detroit were filled with the members and friends of the Board, and the communion services were held with great solemnity and effect. In the evening the Board again met, and several additional reports were made and adopted. The learned President then made a most effective speech. To his former students, especially, it was a high privilege to again listen to his strong, stirling eloquence.

Any intelligent man who will attend the meetings of the Board, must become deeply impressed with the vastness of the work in which those calm, earnest men are engaged, ranking, as they do, among the very first men in piety and in learning that adorn the age in which we live. Their work lies at the base of all good government and all social progress. They seek to make men better, and in so far as their labors are crowned with success, they promote all their temporal and immortal interests. Suppose the gross ignorance, the terrible injustice, the wasting vices, the degradation of Heathenism were banished from China and India, and in their stead the pure principles of the Gospel were understood and obeyed, can any finite mind conceive of the effect such a reformation these would have upon the social and the commercial welfare not only of these people themselves, but upon our own country and the civilized nations of Europe? That is the object which the American Board seeks to accomplish for China and India, and for all the races and the nations of mankind. With the dignity of that work they seem to be fully impressed, and wisely do they direct their means and their energies to accomplish it. Probably there is not a body of men on the face of the globe, unless the British Board of Missions be excepted, who have so much correct knowledge of the manners and customs of the nations of the earth, who know so perfectly their social habits, modes of thinking and the elements of progress characteristic of each, as the active managers of the American Board. They are not only learned Christian gentlemen, but the world will ere long come to regard them as possessing many of the highest elements of the far-seeing statesman. The world is their field, and to diffuse all over its darkness and its degradation the Gospel of the Most High, is the work to which they have consecrated their efforts. They will never see it accomplished; but that day will surely come when the glad song shall echo from pole to pole, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men." May God speed them in their glorious work.

The Star that Never Sets.

Vermont has always battled nobly for liberty and right, but her last achievements surpasses all that have preceded it. Her gallant sons, without the stimulus of any peculiarly exciting issue, despising the lukewarmness which the assurance of victory too generally begets, have just rolled up increased majorities for the advocates of true Republicanism. Her green hills rise amid the habitations of intelligence, morality and education. Her devotion to the cause of Freedom has been coeval with her existence. Even her escape from the tutelage of Colonial childhood, was effected by valor, before which the arts of state-craft sink in insignificance. In troublous, as in happy times, the "Star that never Sets" has shone to cheer and beckon on the weary champions of their country's good; and with ever deepening radiance, it shall continue to beam forth as long as Freedom's banner waves over the Western World.—Cincinnati Gazette.

This is the noble commonwealth that Douglas said the other day was "a good State to be born in provided you left it soon afterwards."

—Prince Metternich arrived at Frankfort lately, with his family, on his way to his chateau of Johannisberg. His vigor, and the gallantry with which he ran up the staircase of the hotel to greet a lady—herself eighty-two years of age—who was waiting to receive him, were the subject of general remark.

Notes by the Way.

NO. II.

Tuesday, August 10th, we bade good-bye to the paternal fireside, and after a delightful ride down the Erie Road and thence eight miles from Port Jervis, we found ourselves in Milford, Pennsylvania, enjoying a social chat and a dish of tea with a much valued relative. Word had gone out that the wanderer of a quarter of a century would meet his old friends at the Court House in the evening and tell them of the wonders of the mighty West, of its growth, its resources and the rewards it promises to honest toil. That old stone court house! there it stands with that same old fish on the spire for a weather-cock—a jumble of terms it is true—call it a weather-fish if you choose—just as it stood thirty-five years ago when our childish eyes first looked upon it and the iron bars of the prison corner with wholesome awe. And how many associations cluster around that old court house! There the venerable Deacon Wallace, long since gone to his reward, and our ever-honored father established prayer meetings months, perhaps years before there was any church in the place, and of course their families were among the first and most constant attendants. We attended there the first Sabbath school ever established in this part of the country, and here have we heard the ablest legal and judicial talent of the State and the most eloquent and learned divines of the time expound and enforce the laws of God and man. And now that same old court house is filled to overflowing with the sons and the daughters of those whom we looked upon as the pillars of society in our boyhood. They listened with all attention while "the stranger" "spoke" of the teeming West; but the lecture over, we soon found that all were not strangers, for here crowd around us with hearty welcome Deacon Thrall and Billy Watson, Horace West and Sol. Newman, Thos. Smith, Jim Wallace and many others, but, alas! time has been making deep furrows on some of their brows. But why linger among these greetings? If you want to crowd the enjoyment of a whole year in a single hour, go and mingle among those with whom you spent your childhood.

Milford, the home of our boyhood, is beautifully situated. The plain on which it stands is some sixty, perhaps a hundred feet above the Delaware. It is half surrounded by high, gracefully rounded hills, and on the north of the town flows the Vandemark Creek, and on the south the Sawkill. The Delaware rolls quietly by in front; on the opposite side are the "Jersey Flats," bounded further on by a long, high ridge of the Alleghany Mountains. In this quiet, beautiful town, are hosts of friends, whom we should be delighted to visit, and many points—the old homestead and the old academy where first we essayed the Greek and the Latin, that we know not how to pass; but there is one venerable form which we must see, as another opportunity may never be afforded us. Our excellent friend and early associate, Ira B. Newman, Esq., has his carriage ready, and we must away to "Jersey," for this is the only day we can spare for social intercourse.

Ere the hour of noon we are welcomed to the hospitable mansion of Esquire Cole. Who has ever enjoyed the hospitality of a substantial Jersey farmer, and not been entirely willing to have more of the "same sort?" But then he is the friend of our childhood; he was the playmate and intimate companion of our venerable father in his childhood, and his warm friend through life, and now they have met to talk over the incidents of three score years. What a privilege it is to listen to such converse, prized the more from its occurrence at periods so rare and distant. The world has never before seen such progress as has occurred during that sixty years. And what though who shall say that they have been less happy than they would have been had they secured a world-wide celebrity? They have surely escaped the restless malice which a more public position seldom fails to meet, and happy shall we be if, when three score and six years are passed away, we can look back on so long a life so well spent.

> Along the cool sequester'd vale of life
> They kept the noiseless tenor of their way,

Bidding Esquire Cole and the venerable companion of his many years good-bye, we drive along that very road where a certain barefoot, chubby boy, leading by the hand a younger brother, used to perform astonishing feats of courage in going thus attended "to grandmother's." She has long since gone to her reward, but another still lingers, and a desire strong and unyielding prompts us if possible once more to see that venerable woman. Reader, would you know the main spring of that desire? Let us go back to the earliest dawn of memory. An active, rosy cheeked urchin, as urchins will, complains that he is hungry. A tall, matronly woman, whom he has learned to call grandmother, takes him by the hand, and chatting pleasantly as they go, leads him around through "the shop," where stands, dark and venerable, the old family loom, down into a cool, neat, cozy little corner, called the cellar. Here a nice piece of gingerbread, the most extravagant cake of the time, and a bowl of rich, sweet milk, gladden the eyes and satiate the hunger of "the boy." And that boy is at her heels everywhere, and he were scarce a boy did not his feet often run into mischief, but never in all his waywardness can he remember one unkind word from that grandmother. "Her tongue is ever the law of kindness." As years roll on she always has a word of cheering encouragement for every generous effort. Though when older he has heard his father speak of her as "step"-mother, it seldom occurred, and never was there one word or "step" to mar the high respect and the esteem in which she is held. And now we stand in the presence of that aged woman. The weight of nearly four score years rests upon her brow; those eyes, alas! have ceased to beam with "Heaven's holy light." She sees us not; but she hears, and those trembling hands once more rest upon the head of "the wanderer." The son, the grandson the granddaughter and the great grandaughter cluster around the matron of nearly four score years. It may, it probably will be their last visit. Of the incidents of that visit and the reflections to which it gave rise we speak not.

It is but half a mile to the beetling cliff at at the base of which, by the side of the brook, stood the old log house where the writer first opened his eyes upon the gay world. Here, with a pin hook from this same shelving rock, he first tempted the speckled trout. Long years have passed away, and not one vestige of the old house remains; but the bluff, the brook and the shelving rock are still there. The black berries are ripe and add zest to the reveries of the past. But we must away.

A ride of five miles brings us to a neat, cozy farm-house, and here we are greeted by cousin Em. Twelve, perhaps fifteen, years have passed since we parted, she a young woman animated with high hopes for the future. We find her still alone, for her companion was called away last winter from his seat in the New Jersey Legislature to a higher seat at the right hand of his Divine Master. How many joys and sorrows, how many bright hopes and sore afflictions have those years of absence called us to experience. Such is the lot of our common humanity, and why should we hope to escape our cup of sorrow?

Evening finds us by the hospitable fireside of a life-long friend who has devoted his energies to the instruction of the young. Long and faithfully has he labored. Milford never nurtured a truer man than Ira B. Newman. May long life and abundant blessings reward his ceaseless toil.

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7, 1858.

The Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, united as it now is with the great Pennsylvania Central route, is emphatically the great route to the East from Chicago. It is nearer to Cleveland, Dunkirk or Buffalo than by any other route from your city.

The completion of the Atlantic link this winter will make the distance seventy eight miles less than by the New York Central or the Erie routes, to the cities of New York or Boston. It is a long distance nearer to Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, and all the Southern Atlantic cities.

It is now emphatically one line from the seaboard to Chicago, and is in fact under the control of one master mind—J. Edgar Thompson.

The rails are now going forward from Pittsburgh for the completion of your end of the road from Plymouth to Chicago. It is being pushed forward with great vigor, and will doubtless reach your city by November next. Of what inestimable importance, then, is your great Union Depot movement, which allows so great a line as this to unite with the Fond du Lac road under one canopy, at the very heart of your city, without in the least interfering with the streets and not incommoding any one interest of the city.

By this arrangement you have one continuous line centering in Chicago, reaching from St. Paul and Lake Superior to the various Atlantic cities, and passing over one of the finest agricultural and mining regions on the globe. This connection, including also the St. Louis, Alton and Chicago Railroad, insures a vast trade with the Southwest which otherwise would find an outlet by Chicago "cut offs," and thus deprive you of that rich carrying trade so coveted by other cities.

When I tell the people of Pittsburgh that there can be found one single man, who is a large owner of West Side property in Chicago, who stands in the way of this glorious consummation and asks damages when he is to be benefited by thousands, they can scarcely credit my story. LOCOMOTIVE.

New Publications.

THE COOPERS; or, Getting Under Way. By Alice B. Haven. Published by Appleton & Co., New York. Sold by S. C. Griggs & Co., 39 and 41 Lake street, Chicago.

The writer of this volume is already favorably known to the reading public as the author of "No such Word as Fail," "All's not Gold that Glitters," etc. Her forte is to deal with the every-day aspects of domestic life; and in the present instance, as in her previous efforts, she has acquitted herself well of her task. Those who have a craving for the morbid and the intense must seek the gratification of their tastes elsewhere. "The Coopers" would probably prove a bore to them. They are plain, common-place people, such as any one with a tolerably wide circle of acquaintances could match by the score. They are neither sentimental, learned, rich, nor possessed, in a marked degree, of any special attraction. They are simply two young, healthy, well-disposed and tolerably well educated people, who blunder hastily into marriage, without much knowledge of each other's characters or of the management and cost of a household. There are misapprehensions and blunders at the start, but they learn wisdom as they proceed; and finally, by the simple exercise of good principles and a fair share of common-sense, achieve a very creditable degree of matrimonial success. Not a trace of couleur de rose gilds the story, yet it is a good one, and will outweigh in usefulness a whole cart-load of Maria-Matilda novels. We should say, however, that the style is lively, and that the narrative abounds with just that kind of pleasant gossip which almost every one delights to read.

THE AGE: A Colloquial Satire By Philip James Bailey, author of "Festus." Published by Ticknor & Fields, Boston. Sold by S. C. Griggs & Co., Chicago.

Mr. Bailey occupies a very singular position in literature. Hailed as a genius of astonishing promise, some dozen or more years ago, on the appearance of "Festus," he very speedily sank to a place in the public estimation hardly more elevated than that now occupied by Mr. Martin Farquhar Tupper. On the whole, the public judgment was not very far wrong; yet we must confess to a certain degree of admiration for that wild, weird, bewildering, incomprehensible, grandly exaggerated, audacious phenomenon in literature. We thought then, and still think, that if it had unparalleled faults and extravagances, it also possessed merits which could only have been due to genius of a high order. There are numerous passages in "Festus" that might be quoted as models of simple beauty; there are flights of the imagination wonderfully sustained, and glowing with the the coinage of the grandest thought and the daintiest fancy. The gems, it must be confessed, bear but a small proportion to the rubbish, yet they are there as the evidence of what the man would have been capable had his powers been thoroughly disciplined, and brought into subjection to the canons of reason and sound poetic taste.

But we are losing sight of the volume in hand It is not, however, much matter. "Colloquial Satire" is even less adapted to Mr. Bailey's genius than the grand themes of "Festus." It never rises to the easy flow and the flashing grace which we look for in a finished satire, and often sinks to absolute doggerel, unfit to occupy the corner of a country newspaper. It will not produce a momentary sensation, and would certainly never have been reprinted on this side of the Atlantic were it not for the relation it bears to its "grand, gloomy, and peculiar" predecessor.

TEXT BOOK OF MODERN CARPENTRY; Comprising a Treatise on Building-Timber, with Rules and Tables for calculating its Strength, and the Strains to which each Timber is subjected; Observations on Roofs, Trusses Bridges &c. By Thomas [illegible] way. Published by Crosby, Nichols & Co., Boston. Sold by S. C. Griggs & Co., Chicago.

The author of this volume has evidently made a thorough study of both the scientific and the practical branches of his profession. In the brief compass of a moderate-sized duodecimo volume, he has contrived to give more information on the art of building than we ever before saw in the same space, and it is so admirably arranged and illustrated by handsome engravings that it is rendered available almost at a glance. The new State Capitol of Vermont owes its fair proportions to his architectural skill.

ANALYTIC GRAMMAR OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, for the use of Schools. By I. [illegible] Nutting, A. M., M. D., Principal of Mount Holly Seminary. Published by Crosby, Nichols & Co., Boston. Sold by S. C. Griggs & Co., Chicago.

Of the making of many grammars there is no end it is a species of manufacture which needs to be checked rather than encouraged; yet we are compelled to say that the volume before us possesses some peculiar merits. It will, we think, better explain to the learner the functions of language and the relations of the several parts of speech to each other than any grammar that has fallen under our notice of late. The illustrations are so simple as to be easily understood by the youngest student, and yet the most advanced learner might profit by them.

Personal and Political.

A Washington letter-writer is responsible for the following:

A curious story is told here of the Collector at San Francisco, Mr. B. F. Washington, one of Dr. Gwin's appointments, and one of the "chivalry" who so bitterly contended against Mr. Buchanan's nomination. It seems that orders were sent to Washington by Secretary Cobb to reduce his force, in response to which he removed some of the oldest and truest friends of the President. John Farrel, once of Pittsburgh, and George B. Porter, late of Lancaster, were two of the decapitated. This is, indeed, "a new way to pay old debts."

—The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, writing on the 3d, says:

The indications are that the Government is about to charge postage upon speeches, &c., sent to the Post-office here by political clubs, when it is known that the members purporting to frank them have not done so themselves, but have authorized others to use their names. This will be a heavy blow to electioneering from this point.

—The Zouave, Capt. De Riviere, has again turned up. He says in a card in the Courrier des Etats Unis that he is not a bankrupt, and that he did not abduct Miss Blount. His conduct in that affair, he says, "was limited to accompanying, upon their demand, and to protecting, at their request, two ladies who endeavored to escape from an odious tyranny."

—James Miller, formerly Mayor of Newark, N. J., and Adjutant-General of that State, was found drowned near Beekman street, New York, on Saturday last.

—There has been a great banquet at Paris in honor of Prof. Morse, at which the whole company, eighty-three in number, were Americans. Prof. Morse, Rev. Mr. Seeley, Minister Mason, Sidney E. Morse of the New York Observer, Winthrop Atwill of the New York Evangelist, and others made speeches.

—Mr. John Pickett has lately given $10,000 to the Southwestern Bible Society of New Orleans, La., for the purpose of stocking their Bible Houses with Bibles.

—By the death of Mrs. Mary Coggswell Jarvis, widow of the late Leonard Javis, of Baltimore, Md., Harvard College comes in possession of $20,000, left to the institution by Mr. Jarvis' will.

—Capt. Brennan, whose wife is mysteriously missing, when he heard in Florida of her disappearance, said that for some days he had had the most horrible dreams about his wife, and was expecting bad news.

Profits of The Slave Trade.

A writer in the Charleston Mercury states that the Africans found on board the Putnam were purchased on the West coast at from 50 cents to $1, and costing scarcely more than $10 or $15 to be delivered on the coast of Cuba, and were all to be sold by contract at $560 round, or $177,980 for the cargo. He argues that so long as such enormous profits are to be made by the traffic, it will be carried on, in spite of all the efforts that may be made to prevent it.

Republican Ticket in Massachusetts.

The following is the full ticket for State officers nominated by the State Republican Convention. All the present officers are nominated for re-election:

For Governor—Nathaniel P. Banks.
For Lieutenant Governor—Eliphalet Trask.
For State Treasurer—Moses Tenney.
For Secretary of State—Oliver Warner.
For Attorney-General—H. Phillips.
For Auditor—Charles White.

How the Public Money is Used; and how Home Interests are Cherished.

It seems pretty evident that Mr. Buchanan and his officials used the people's money pretty freely to bribe Lecompton through Congress, and the proof is perfect. The conduct of the administration in awarding a contract for iron pipes to be used in supplying Washington City with water, which was given to a party favorite at more than the minimum price for which practical mechanics proposed to furnish them, has been the subject of much indignant comment. This job was given by the contractor to a Scotch manufacturer at Glasgow, and the successful bidder in this case was Owen Jones, a Lecompton member of Congress from Pennsylvania! This shows how legislators were paid for stultifying themselves and deceiving their constituents, even at the expense of the great manufacturing interests of our country. The Scotch manufacturers are fulfilling their sub-contract, while all the Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey foundries, which were able to fill the contract, were refused the work, and in consequence of this award, it is said that orders to the amount of 5,000 tons of iron have been countermanded to furnaces on the Lehigh. There is double wrong in this conduct; it is wrong to send so valuable a contract across the Atlantic, thus withholding employment from home labor at a time when it stands so much in need of encouragement; and it is wrong to procure water pipes abroad, when it is notorious that they can be made much better and more substantially in this country.—Louisville Journal.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Lincoln, Lovejoy, Oglesby and Marshall in Edgar County.

POLITICS ON THE WABASH.

PARIS, Edgar Co., Ill., Sept. 8, 1858.

It is confidently asserted down this way that our neighbor, Hon. U. F. Linder, has received a touching epistle from Massa Douglas, running something in this wise: "For God's sake, Linder, "come up into the northern part of the State and "help me. Every bull-dog in the State is after me"—or something equivalent to this, indicating rather a feverish state of mind on the part of the man who lately bragged about having thirty majority in the next Legislature. But you may tell Massa Douglas that Hon. U. F. Linder has got more than his hands full if he takes care of a couple of counties on the Wabash which embrace the aggregate of his influence. It would hardly seem possible for a man who acquired so extensive a notoriety in connection with the Alton mob which finished its barbarian proceedings with the murder of Lovejoy, to make many votes in the Counties of Winnebago, Kane, Cook, or Bureau; nor do I think it was wholly judicious in Douglas to send for a man with that kind of a record.

The audience which assembled in this place yesterday to hear Hon. Abraham Lincoln was larger by five hundred persons than that which came together last month to make the Douglas "demonstration." In this estimate I exclude the Indiana contribution which constituted so distinguished a part of the Douglas crowd—seven car loads having come over from Indianapolis and Terre Haute on that occasion. Omitting these non-voters, you can find plenty of men here to make affirmation that our doings yesterday eclipsed the "Dimmecratic" performance in numbers, enthusiasm and everything else.

Old Abe arrived in Paris on the 3 o'clock train from the West—having been detained several hours at Tolono and Mattoon, where the people gave him public receptions and literally compelled him to speak. Hon. Owen Lovejoy and Hon. James Miller, our State Treasurer, had arrived rather unexpectedly on the morning train, and were heartily welcomed. It was amusing, I assure you, to witness the curiosity, not unmixed with terror, with which Mr. Lovejoy was regarded by some of our oldest and most respectable citizens. Evidently many of them expected to find him wearing horns and a tail. In the absence of Mr. Lincoln, he was urgently called for and finally took the stand. He had spoken about half an hour when the procession from the depot arrived at the grove with Old Abe, who was greeted with three rousing cheers. The effect of Mr. Lovejoy's speech will be referred to again—doubtless to the entire satisfaction of Douglas, Linder & Co.

Mr. Lincoln spoke for two hours with unusual power and effect. It has been repeatedly remarked to me since the adjournment of the exercises, that "it was the clearest argument ever delivered in Edgar County." Towards the conclusion Mr. Lincoln rose to the height of impassioned eloquence and elicited the loud applause of an audience not accustomed to be taken by a storm of words, however strikingly pronounced. The The following passage in the opening of his speech struck me as new. But whether wholly original or not, it is worth a place in the columns of the PRESS AND TRIBUNE:

"POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY. WHAT DID DOUGLAS REALLY INVENT?

Let us inquire, (said Mr. Lincoln,) what Douglas really invented when he introduced, and drove through Congress, the Nebraska bill. He called it "Popular Sovereignty." What does Popular Sovereignty mean? Strictly and literally it means the Sovereignty of the People over their own affairs—in other words, the Right of the People of every nation and community to govern themselves. Did Mr. Douglas invent this? Not quite. The idea of Popular Sovereignty was floating about the world several ages before the author of the Nebraska bill saw daylight—indeed, before Columbus set foot on the American continent. In the year 1776 it took tangible form in the noble words which you are all familiar with: "We hold these truths to be self-evident: That "all men are created equal; That they are en-"dowed by their Creator with certain inalienable "rights; That among these are life, liberty and "the pursuit of happiness; That to secure these "rights governments were instituted among men. "deriving their just powers from the consent of the "governed." Was not this the origin of Popular Sovereignty as applied to the American people? Here we are told that governments are instituted among men to secure certain rights, and that they derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. If that is not Popular Sovereignty, then I have no conception of the meaning of words.

Then if Mr. Mr. Douglas did not invent this kind of Sovereignty, let us pursue the inquiry and find out what the invention really was. Was it the right of emigrants in Kansas and Nebraska to govern themselves and a gang of niggers too, if they wanted them? Clearly this was no invention of his, because Gen. Cass put forth the same doctrine in 1848, in his so-called [illegible] ise thought of such a thing. Gen. Cass could have taken out a patent for the idea, if he had chosen to do so, and have prevented his Illinois rival from reaping a particle of benefit from it. Then what was it, I ask again, that this "Little Giant" invented? It never occurred to Gen. Cass to call his discovery by the odd name of "Popular Sovereignty." He had not the impudence to say that the right of people to govern niggers was the right of people to govern themselves. His notions of the fitness of things were not moulded to the brazen degree of calling the right to put a hundred niggers through under the lash in Nebraska, a "sacred right of self government." And here, I submit to this intelligent audience and the whole world, was Judge Douglas' discovery, and the whole of it. He invented a name for Gen. Cass' old Nicholson letter dogma. He discovered that the right of the white man to breed and flog niggers in Nebraska was POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY! [Great applause and laughter.]

When Mr. Lincoln had concluded, (at 5 o'clock) and after three loud cheers had been given for him, and three for the Republican ticket, it was proposed that the audience adjourn till evening and listen to Mr. Lovejoy and Mr. Oglesby at the Court House. This motion was promptly negatived by the whole crowd, who insisted that Lovejoy should occupy the remaining hour till tea time, and "pitch in right smart." I venture the assertion that no equal number of persons could be found within a hundred miles of Chicago who would come forward more eagerly to hear Owen Lovejoy than did Republicans, Americans and Democrats in Edgar County, yesterday. They had got a taste of that which was good, and they were bound to have more before the first mouthful got cold. Mr. Lovejoy spoke until six o'clock, amid frequent and continued applause. "If that's what they call Abolitionism, I'm an Abolitionist," has been the constant remark of both Republicans and Old Line Whigs, since the conclusion of the exercises. Indeed, so much pleased was the entire community, that Mr. Lovejoy was again called out in the evening, and spoke nearly half an hour at the Court House. A delegation of Americans from Grandview started for home about seven o'clock, shouting for Lincoln and Oglesby. I inquired of one of them, a rigid Fillmore man, what he had to say against Lovejoy now. "One of the best speeches that ever came "out of a man's mouth," was the reply. "No "more Abolition than I've believed in all my "life."

At half-past seven "Dick" Oglesby, our candidate for Congress, commenced speaking in the Court House. The building was crowded to excess. "Dick" made a slam-bang speech, (if you know what that is—and if you don't, I advise you to hear him once,) about an hour and a half in length. His remarks were received with loud and continued applause. Jim Robinson, his antagonist, had agreed to meet him here, and canvass the county in company with him, and then make out a list of appointments for joint discussions in the District. Instead of doing so he has made out a list for himself, and magnanimously invited Mr. Oglesby to discuss with him at these places and these alone. Of course, if this gracious invitation is not accepted, he will announce that our candidate dare not speak with him. A very skillful confidence-man is this Robinson. He must have learned that trick from Douglas.

After Mr. Oglesby had concluded, Mr. Lovejoy was again called for, as already stated.

Mr. Marshall, our gallant candidate for Senator, was then loudly called for. He took the stand and made a cogent and telling speech, about half an hour long; after which the audience adjourned with three cheers for Lincoln, Oglesby, Marshall and the whole ticket. You may call Mr. Marshall's election a sure thing. He is universally popular in the four counties comprising his district, and there is not a more indomitable worker between Wisconsin and the Ohio River. No nomination has yet been made for Representative in Edgar County, on either side. The Democrats hold their Convention on the 17th, the Republicans and Americans on the 20th. You doubtless remember our late contest for County Clerk, in which the Republican candidate went in by 56 majority. It was a square up and down fight, and each party struck from the shoulder. We have an animated campaign upon us, but you may look for good news from Edgar when the votes are counted. Mr. Craddock, the Republican candidate for Representative in Coles and Moultrie, was with us yesterday, and gave cheering accounts of progress in that quarter.

The news of the removal of Marshal Davidson, Collector Hacker and Postmaster Post (of Decatur,) has bothered the Democracy down this way not a little. They begin to suspect there is something rotten in Denmark. PARISIAN.

—Somebody—evidently a Cockney—has suggested that M. Soyer's epitaph should be "Peace to his hashes."

DOUGLAS AT CARLINVILLE.

THE GREATEST FIZZLE OF THE CAMPAIGN!

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

CARLINVILLE, Sept. 8th, 1858.

It had been the intention of Douglas and his toadies to have a grand demonstration in old Macoupin. A band of music was brought up from Alton—extra trains were run from Springfield at half fare—cannon were fired, and the partnership with the circus was continued—yet with all these appliances, the most lukewarm set of suffering Douglasites that were ever congregated, got together here to-day. Great posters were issued, and large and small programmes carried around, telling everybody what to do, and what a tremendous procession there was to be. And such a procession! A perfect funeral train. Unlike even the Douglas demonstration at Jacksonville, not a shout went up, nor a hurrah was heard during the gathering, in the procession—or until after 2 o'clock, when a few faint attempts at applause were heard during the speech.

It was a hard-looking crowd; and Douglas, unshaven and unshorn, looked in keeping with his hearers, only more so. He looked jaded and blue, and in reality was so. The hotel being full of circus men before his arrival, he occupied a room in common with one of the two-horse-riders. The "committee" was too slow to-day, and the circus performance was over before an arrangement could be made to speak under the canvas, and secure the attendance of all who should be caught under it. The Marshals paraded their wagons before the hotel, and cried out, "Stand back, boys, till we fetch him out!" But Dug wouldn't be "fetched" out until the procession marched around town a few times to get recruits. At length they "fetched" him, and his reporters and baggage carriers also.

He commenced his speech by an urgent appeal to the old Whigs, whom he had so gallantly and honorably fought. His account of the the time he saved the Union, a few years since, when Chicago was in open rebellion against it, and ready to march with bayonet in hand against Uncle Sam! was touching to the patriotic heart. But when Douglas spoke, Chicago acknowledged herself all wrong and him all right. "A glorious spectacle," said he, "was that!"

The people of Freeport—those terrible Abolitionists—he delighted to battle against. He had long since, and recently, told them to their face that they were entirely too thick, too social, with negroes, particularly with his name-sake, Fred, whom he very much dislikes, as "a person who has no rights that he is bound to respect." Indeed, in his speech to-day, he was particularly hostile to the whole Northern part of the State; but he eulogized the Southern portion of it. In all his speeches he takes pains to ridicule Vermont, as a State which the earlier in life you leave the better. As he is ashamed of it, it is quite likely most of its natives who didn't leave it so early, will be ashamed of him.

When he declared, as he usually does in fighting a man of straw, that each State has a right to form its own local laws, a Republican asked him, "Who denies such a proposition?"

With the exception of his not once referring to Lincoln's charge of conspiracy, nor to Trumbull's charge that he (Douglas) tried to cheat Kansas out of the right of voting on her Constitution, his speech was the same old stereotyped affair. Although he applied the terms "Abolitionist," "sneak," and all sorts of things, to Trumbull and Lincoln ("who wants my place"), yet, in speaking of Republicanism, he left off the prefix "Black," in most instances. That he had served the people of this county twenty-three years ago as prosecuting attorney, and that he had for a long time been "one of 'em," he took good care to tell. And, and a drenching rain coming on towards its close, he concluded his speech ing the old-fashioned way. MACOUPIN.

St. Louis Fair.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7, 1858.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune].

SECOND DAY.

The second day of the Fair opened with quite as large a crowd in attendance as on yesterday. For the benefit of the many readers of the PRESS AND TRIBUNE who have never visited the Fair grounds in this city, I will give you a brief description of them. The grounds—containing about fifty acres—are beautifully located on an elevated piece of ground on "Grand avenue," about three miles northwest of the city. The grounds are covered with a kind of "blue grass," and shaded with a fine grove of forest trees, and through them are winding avenues, bordered with evergreens, and trees of various kinds. An aqueduct from the city reservoir keeps seven fountains, located in different parts of the inclosure, in constant play, and furnishes a supply of water for use, wherever required. In several of the groves there are some fine pieces of statuary. Around this whole inclosure are covered stalls for the accommodation of stock, and convenient thereto is a drive thirty-five feet wide, for pleasure-riding, or the exercise of horses.

The buildings are of that character to add great beauty to the grounds. They are all neatly painted white, and well calculated for the accommodation of visitors and exhibitors. The amphitheatre is the principal building, and is located in about the centre of the grounds, and is claimed to be the largest building of the kind in the United States. It is about 1,200 feet in circumference on the inside. The seats are arranged one above another so that all can see; they will seat about 12,000 people. Around this tier of seats are two promenades—one below, on a level with the ground, and one above on a range with the highest seats. Each of these promenades will hold about 10,000 persons. The promenades and seats are all under cover, thus furnishing shelter collectively for about 32,000 persons. Under the upper promenade and the seats, opening on the outside, are eighty booths which are occupied during the Fair by venders of refreshments. The arena thus inclosed is covered with tan-bark and used for the exhibition of stock. In the center of the arena is a pagoda forty-five feet high, with three stories, which are occupied by a band and by committees. It is built in a very fine, ornamental style, and from a flag staff running up about sixty feet above it, floats the American banner. The floral, mechanical and fine art halls, and machine shop, are well constructed buildings, but as is too often the case at State or National Fairs, are too small for convenience. The gallinarium is three stories high, and made wholly of wire. It is admirably adapted for the exhibition of poultry. The cottage is a very fine building—so far as architecture is concerned—contains four saloons which are well furnished, and designed expressly for the comfort and convenience of ladies. It is occupied, in the absence of the Fair, by persons who have the charge of the grounds, as a residence.

On the whole, these grounds will rival, if not surpass, those of any similar Association in any State of the Union.

HORSES—BLOODED.

The show of blooded stallions was very fair, but fell short of the expectations of the "horse men" present. The principal amount of first-rate stock was from Kentucky. The first premium for blooded stallions, four years and over, was won by "Doubloon," owned by H. E. Moore, of Cooper Co., Mo.; and the second by "Little Arthur," owned by T. T. Smith, of Jackson Co., Mo. Both these horses are of Kentucky stock, and were formerly owned there, figuring quite extensively on "the turf" between Louisville and New Orleans.

STALLIONS, three years and under four.—First premium won by "Ben Hallard," a fine bay horse, sired by old St. Louis, out of Modoc, and owned by Campbell & Frink, Warren Co., Mo.; and the second was taken by "Gold-finder," owned by I. Buford, of St. Louis Co., Mo.

STALLIONS, two years and under three.—First premium taken by "Dick Barret," owned by T. T. January, of St. Louis; and the second by "Jordan Morgan," owned by E. Dorsey, of Louisville, Ky.

STALLIONS, one year and under two.—First premium awarded to "Marengo," owned by J. Wason, of St. Louis Co., Mo.

BLOODED MARES, four years and over.—The show of stock in this class was good. The first premium was awarded to "Gordon," owned by S. T. Tucker, of Louisville, Mo.; and the second to "Bessy," owned by J. McDonald, of Mo. Three years old, first premium to G. Mallory, of Louisville. Two years old, first premium to E. Dorsey, of Louisville. Yearlings, first premium to T. T. January, of St. Louis.

CATTLE—THOROUGH BRED.

The show of cattle to-day was very fair, but on the whole, I think it inferior to the show made at the Illinois State Fair, held at Chicago, two or three years since. On "thorough-bred bulls," four years and over, the first premium was awarded to "Crusader," owned by R. G. Corwin, of Lebanon, Ohio; and the second to "Belmont," owned by Pollick & Ritter, Jacksonville, Ill.

BULLS, three years and under four.—The first premium was awarded to "Gen. Scott," owned by E. Signor, of Lincoln Co., Mo.; and the second to "King Alfred," owned by I. M. Brown, of Sangamon, Co., Ill.

BULLS, one year and under two.—First premium to "Duke," owned by Mr. Bell, of Pike Co., Mo.; and the second to an animal owned by Capt. Phillips, of St. Louis.

BULLS, under one year.—First premium awarded to "Baltimore," owned by I. M. Brown, of Sangamon Co., Ill.; and the second to "Acidue," owned by the same gentleman.

COWS.—The first and second premium for cows, four years old and over, were won by Mr. I. M. Brown, of Sangamon Co., Ill.

COWS, three years and under four.—First premium to Mr. Brown, of Ill.; and second to Mr. Larrimore, of Mo.

HEIFERS, two years and under three.—First premium to stock owned by Mr. Larrimore, of Mo.; and second to D. K. Pitman, of St. Charles, Mo.

HEIFERS, one year and under two.—First premium to "Lady Francis," owned by Mr. Brown, of Ill.; and second to Mr. Jones, of St. Louis.

HEIFERS, under one year.—First and second premiums awarded to Mr. Brown, of Ill.

This closes the second day of the Fair. In my next, I shall try and send you a list of the premiums awarded on articles of importance, especially those belonging to Illinois, if they can be had in time. AGRICOLA.

Meeting of the American Board of Foreign Missions.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

DETROIT, Sept. 8, 1858.

The American Board met at 2½ P. M. Rev. W. R. Palmer, Father Keat, Grout of the Zulu Mission, President Chapin of Beloit, and Prof. Post of St. Louis, made remarks on the resolutions.

Rev. Calvin Clark, District Secretary for the Northwest, gave an animated appeal, "We need the Spirit of God to sustain missions."

Mr. Butler, of Iowa, a young lawyer, made an address. He believed in doing for Africa what Livingstone had done. "Go and do the work. The churches of Iowa are anti-slavery, and the Board must sustain this feeling."

Rev. Ansel D. Eddy eulogized the West. He believed the West would do her part when the subject is brought before them. We must do a home work also. Have sympathies for home as well as China and India. We have Indians to help at home. They formed the main burden of Dr. E.'s speech.

Mr. Vrooman, of China, wished to say that there were not men willing to go, because, he feared, they thought themselves better than others. Women were ready to go, but not men. We are the people, and wisdom will die with us.

Dr. Duffield's Church, 7 P. M.—Prayer was offered by Rev. H. B. Hooker, of Mass.

Rev. G. L. Foster, of Ypsilanti, Mich., then addressed the meeting. Mr. F. remarked that he felt incompetent to represent the West, as he was partly expected to do. The West was a great something, existing somewhere, for some great purpose. But soon there would be no East, no West. The telegraph had annihilated time, actually giving news from London at New York sometime before it started!

There is a missionary spirit in the West. Men have come under great sacrifices, and have toiled on to build up the cause of Christ. Mr. F. gave some instances. A poor woman on her knees may touch the electric wire that reaches heaven. The people generally have felt anxious to know the situation of the Board concerning American slavery, but they now feel satisfied that the Board occupies an honorable position. We should do more for the Board, because, notwithstanding the commercial embarrassments, we are able to do it. The revival urges it upon us. It will be true of the West hereafter, that she will do well for the cause of Christ.

Rev. Mr. Meigs, of the Ceylon Mission, next addressed the meeting. Mr. Meigs did not see any difference between the East and the West. We might begin at Jerusalem, but we must go beyond it. Persecution, or the love of God, must drive you out. Forty-three years, said the speaker, I have been on missionary ground. The changes are great to you, they must be greater still to me. Some changes he rejoiced in, others not. The advancing pride, and luxury, and display of the present day are painful. There is too small a distinction between the church and the world. So much spent upon self leaves little for God. I am not opposed to the decencies of civilized life, but would have all things consecrated to God.

Why is it that so much of the world is subject to the Anglo-Saxon race? Has not God designed it for good? Mr. Meigs had attended meetings in Exeter Hall, London, and was glad to hear the strong purposes formed to Christianize India. They spoke with great plainness.

Mr. M. went on to speak of Ceylon. The young men come determined to gain an English education. Many of them had been converted, and were anxious to enter the Christian church. They were also acquiring a missionary spirit. Mr. M. remarked that the missionary cause was a good one, and he rejoiced that he had given it over forty years of his life.

Rev. Mr. Parsons, of the Turkish Mission, said he had just arrived, and had not one night's sleep in America for nine years, and could make but few remarks. He alluded tenderly to the circumstances which had led him into the missionary field. The counsel of President Hopkins was efficient to this end. Mr. Parsons was first sent to the Jews, but afterwards to the Armenians. The Armenians were generally favorably disposed to the truth; but they must have much culture yet. The Bulgarians were noticed. They are under the Greek Church, though opposed to it. The Turks themselves are learning the truth, and many of them have Bibles.

Rev. Dr. Allen, of Lane Seminary, next addressed the meeting. He wished to speak of young men. We have come nearer our duty in giving our young men in the West, than in giving our money. You take our best young men, and are only content with them. We do not do it grudgingly. All our help in this cause, however, must come from the cross. We must not depend on Atlantic cables, or temporary impulses, but on the living God.

The meeting to-day have been spirited.

At the same hour on which exercises were held in Dr. Duffield's church in the evening, they were also held in the Jefferson Avenue church, and addresses made by Rev. Father Gleason, of the Seneca Mission; Rev. Mr. Eels, of Cleveland; Dr. Bacon, of New Haven, and Judge Jessup, of Montrose, Pa.

Yours truly, LOWE.

Particulars of the Accident on the Hudson River Railroad.

Two Men Killed—Forty Cars and two Engines Destroyed—Great Slaughter of Cattle.

[From the New York Tribune, 8th.]

Yesterday morning, at 2½ o'clock, a terrible accident occurred on the Hudson River Railroad, at the Fishkill Station, by which two men were almost instantly killed, and several others badly injured.

It appears that on the previous evening two immense trains freighted with cattle left Albany for this city. At the time above mentioned the first train reached Fishkill, when the engineer discovered that the axle boxes of one of the cars were almost red hot, and that in consequence it would be dangerous to proceed until the boxes could be cooled. Men were forthwith set to work to cool the boxes.

Within a few seconds after the train had stopped, a brakeman was ordered to take the signal of danger, a red light, and run along the track in order to warn the second train, which was coming on at full speed. For greater safety, and to preclude, if possible, the occurrence of an accident from the approaching train, the Conductor of the first train ran back some distance, and placed three torpedoes upon the track (another signal of danger.) In a little time the train came thundering on—the brakeman's signal with the red light was answered by the engineer signalizing the brakemen to apply the brakes. Soon the torpedoes exploded, and another signal was given to apply all force to the brakes. This was done, but owing to the great length of the train and the speed which it was under at the time, the brakes proved of but little avail, and a frightful collision was the result.

The first train was standing alongside the machine shop. This train had one engine and numbered thirty-five cars. The second train numbered forty-two cars, and was drawn by two powerful engines, the "Rochester" and "Putnam." The engines, the moment they struck the rear car of the foremost train, were thrown from the track, and, striking a chimney some fifty feet high connected with the machine shop, completely demolished it.

The cars of the second train were dashed forward, and some lay piled one on top of the other as high as the second-story windows of the shop. Quite a large number of cattle and hogs were killed, and many others so badly injured that it was an act of humanity to kill them and put an end to their sufferings. Several large bullocks lay on top of the debris, and one ox of mammoth proportions was thrown half way into a second-story window of the shop. Such of the swine as escaped uninjured seemed quite unconcerned about the matter, and extricating themselves from the ruins, were soon afterward rooting along the road or wallowing in the mire.

KILLED.—The two men above mentioned, who were instantly killed, were Mr. George Hayward, engineer, and resident of Albany; and Mr. John B. Boswell, drover, from Manchester, Putnam Co., Indiana.

INJURED.—Charles B. Robinson, engineer, of Poughkeepsie, badly. Charles Rowe, fireman, of same place, very badly scalded.

Parris Hand, a drover, who was in the last car of the first train with the drover Boswell, had a narrow escape, and came near sharing the same fate with his fellow. He looked through the window upon hearing the signal, and seeing the engines within thirty yards of his car, sprang upon the platform in an instant, and leaped to the ground just in time to save his life.

The engineer and fireman of the Engine Rochester, seeing that a collision was unavoidable, abandoned their posts and escaped to the ground. Albert Burlingame, the fireman, escaped uninjured, but Mr. Robinson, the engineer, had his head badly cut in three or four places, and his hand and arm badly lacerated, but no bones broken. His injuries are of a very serious nature, but he will recover.

Illinois Intelligence.

PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Monday morning last as the passenger train going north on the Illinois Central road, was rapidly approaching the Ashley Station, Mr. Daniel Balsal, a merchant from Mt. Vernon, very imprudently made an effort to cross the track some five or six feet a head of the locomotive, when his left foot was caught by the cow catcher and entirely severed from the leg at the ankle joint. He received other serious wounds by the accident, upon the head and other portions of the body, from the effects of which it was thought, when our informant left Ashley, but a few moments after the occurrence, he would not recover.—Nashville Dem., 9th.

SICKNESS AT MARSHALL, CLARK CO.—The Marshall Journal of the 8th says that since the 5th of August a fearful mortality has prevailed in that place. It says:

> Never before has our usually healthful and beautiful town been so afflicted by the ravages of disease. Every day we are called upon to record the death of several persons in our immediate neighborhood. One by one have we followed the remains of some of Marshall's best citizens to the grave, and at a fearful rate the fell destroyer continues his work.

Pennsylvania Banks.

The Philadelphia banks commenced to-day to take on deposit, at par, notes of the following country banks: Anthracite Bank of Tamaqua, Bank of Chambersburg, Farmers' Bank of Schuylkill county, at Pottsville; Bank of Gettysburg, Harrisburg Bank, Honesdale Bank, Jersey Shore Bank, Lebanon Bank, Lebanon Valley Bank, at Lebanon; Lewisburg Bank, Bank of Middletown, Bank of Northumberland, Union Bank of Reading, West Branch Bank, at Williamsport; Wyoming Bank, at Wilksbarre; York Bank, York County Bank, at York. In anticipation of the movement the brokers have been hoarding up the issues of these banks.—N. Y. Evening Post, 3d.

Dr. Christie's Ague Balsam.—The excessive heat of the past summer has left almost everybody in a debilitated condition, and therefore liable to billous diseases. The fever and ague is now quite prevalent, and we consider it our duty to call the attention of the public to one of the greatest remedies of the age for all Billous Complaints, such as Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, &c. Unlike nearly all similar preparations, it is free from poisonous substances, and it can be administered to all ages and classes without injurious results.

Use no other Ague Balsam except CHRISTIE'S, as there are several articles by that name which are totally unlike Dr. Christie's, the original inventor. See Advertisement.

Sawyer's Fluid Extract of Bark, an infallable remedy for the Fever and Ague, and the various forms of Billious Diseases, Intermittent, Remittent, Chill Fever and Dumb Ague, having their origin in malaria of very fertile and marshy districts, prepared by Dr. S. S. Sawyer, Druggist and Chemist, and sold by Sawyer, Paine & Co., No. 16 Lake street, Chicago.

This remedy is prepared entirely from vegetable substances, and contains no mercury, arsenic, or anything that can prove injurious to the system. Its effects are those of a deobstruent and tonic, well adapted to restore the healthy action of the Liver and Stomach, whose functions are so generally impaired in this class of diseases.

Quinine and other tonics serve only in many cases to break the chills, but do not remove the diseases of the liver and other organs implicated, on which the chill and Fever depend; hence the usefulness of the "Fluid Extract of Bark," (particularly in regions where Physicians cannot be readily consulted), which contains all the qualities suited to the indications of these maladies.

Hundreds of testimonials in regard to the efficacy of the medicine from persons of respectability, have been given to the proprietor—but he does not make use of them as he prefers to have the medicine introduce itself securely by its merits.

Fever and Ague.—This trying and provoking disease, which fixes its relentless grasp on the body of man, reducing him to a mere shadow in a short space of time, and rendering him mentally and physically useless, can be defeated and driven from the body by the use of Dr. J. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. The great success it has met with, and the beneficent results following its use, have established it as a permanent "institution." We would advise our readers to procure this valuable specific, and if an absent friend is afflicted with the fever and ague, or any other nervous disease, to hasten and procure this much favored and greatly desired article. A trial is all that is needed to prove its many excellent qualities.

Dyspepsia and Fits.—Dr. O. Phillips BROWN, The Great Curer of Consumption, was for several years so badly afflicted with Dyspepsia that for a part of the time he was confined to his bed. He was eventually cured by a prescription furnished him by a young clairvoyant girl. This prescription, given him by a mere child, while in a trance, has cured everybody who has taken it—never having failed once. It is equally as safe in cases of Fits as Dyspepsia. The ingredients may be found in any Drug Store. I will send this prescription to any person on the receipt of one stamp to pay postage. Address DR. O. PHILLIPS BROWN, Charles' London Cordial Gin.—The Original and only London Gin Imported. This Gin, distilled in London from sound Barley, under the surveillance of the British Excise Laws, is delicately flavored with a tincture of the Italian Juniper Berry, and some of the most valuable restoratives of the Vegetable Kingdom, rendering it in the opinion of the most eminent medical men, the purest and safest stimulant or diuretic drink in use.

It is a delicious tonic, of a soft and delicate flavor, differing entirely from any other Gin, and devoid of that harsh, acrid taste, which renders the article known as Holland Gin or Schnapps so objectionable.

Though not intended as a medicine, it is recommended by physicians generally in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, the Kidneys and the Bowels, Nervous Debility, &c., whilst the weaker sex will find by its adoption a sure relief from those distressing annoyances which frequently attend their delicate organization.

Dr. Valentine Mott, of New York, the highest medical authority, pronounces Charles' London Cordial Gin "not only superior to any other, but the best article of the kind he has ever seen."

It is peculiarly adapted to settlers in the Southern and Western States, as well as for travellers exposed to changes of water and air.

For sale in quarts at seventy-five cents, and pints thirty-eight cents, by all Druggists, Grocers, Fruiterers, and Country Merchants. Beware of imitations. Buy only CHARLES'. NONE OTHER IS IMPORTED.

A most Valuable Remedy for Headache.—Dr. R. A. Wilson's Tonic Cathartic and Anti-Dyspeptic Pills. Rev. W. G. Howard, Pastor of the 1st Baptist Church, Chicago, in a letter addressed to Messrs. Fahnestock & Davis, dated June 18th, 1858, says:—"During the last twenty years I have made use of a great variety of medicines prescribed by Allopathic and Homeopathic physicians, but all have failed; and I had relinquished all hopes of relief, until I was induced to resort to WILSON'S PILLS. These have effectually relieved me in repeated instances of late, and I can cheerfully and conscientiously recommend them to others who are similarly affected." The Fatal Railway Collision near Dudley, England—Twelve Lives Lost.

[From the Birmingham Daily Post.]

The most serious catastrophe that has ever occurred on a railway in the Midland district took place last night on the Oxford, Worcester and Wolverhampton line, between Round Oak and Brettel-lane stations, a few miles beyond Dudley. By it eleven persons were instantaneously killed, another died a few hours afterwards, several more were so severely injured that their recovery is despaired of, others are maimed for life, and a great number were more or less injured. The accident took place under the following circumstances:

Yesterday there was "a very cheap Sunday School excursion to Worcester." A special train was announced to leave Wolverhampton for Worcester at 9:15, "calling at all stations for the express purpose of conveying the teachers and children of the various schools to Worcester and back." The fare from Wolverhampton and Stourbridge and all intermediate stations to Worcester and back was 1s for adults, and 6d for children; from Hagley to Churchill, Kidderminster and Worcester, it was 3d for adults, and 2d for children; and from Droitwich and Fearnal Heath, 6d for adults, and 3d for children. This extraordinary low rate of charges naturally attracted a large number of passengers, and by the time the train arrived at its destination it had been augmented to 45 carriages, computed to contain nearly 2,000 passengers. The returned train was announced to leave Worcester at 6:15 P. M. Those having charge of the arrangements determined to divide the train, and instead of having one monster train propelled by two engines, to have two trains, each drawn by one engine. Accordingly, about twenty-five minutes after 6 o'clock the first train left Worcester station. It consisted of 29 carriages, closely packed with passengers, and was followed in a quarter of an hour by the second train, consisting of 16 carriages. Each train called at all stations, and all went well with the first until its arrival at Round Oak, which took place about 8:5. There, either just before the train arrived at the station, which is situated on a steep incline, or when it was put in motion to leave the station, twelve or thirteen of the last carriages became detached from the former part of the train by the breaking of the couplings of two of the carriages, and rolled down the incline toward Brettel-lane with ever increasing velocity. The guard who occupied the van at the extremity of the train applied his break with all the force of which it was capable, but its power was insufficient to check the retrograde motion of the carriages, which soon attained a very high rate of speed. On arriving at Bug Hole, a little more than half way to Brettel-lane, they dashed into the second excursion train, which, as before stated, was dispatched from Worcester only 15 minutes after the first, and being a lighter train, naturally gained upon it during the journey. The driver of the second train perceived the carriages running back upon him down the incline, and had nearly succeeded in bringing his train to a stand at the time of the collision, thus considerably mitigating the severity of the crash. But as it was, the consequences were fearful. The guard's van and the carriage next to it were split into matchwood, and the second carriage escaped little better. The guard jumped out just before the collision occurred, and escaped without injury; but the effect upon the passengers crowded in the two shattered carriages was dreadful. The scene that ensued it is impossible to describe. Fragments of the crushed and broken carriages, mutilated human forms, some still in death, some writhing in their last agonies, others seriously but not fatally hurt, shrieking with pain and terror, were mingled in a general melee, hardly distinguishable amid the darkness and the dust occasioned by the collision. The terrified passengers who escaped without serious injury ran hither and thither in bewilderment, and for a time none knew what to do. It was soon apparent that the loss of life was lamentably great. Eleven lifeless forms were discovered among the rubbish, in addition to many frightfully mangled and disfigured.

Here follows a long list of the killed and the wounded, giving a description of the injuries suffered by the victims. The collision resembles, in many particulars, the shocking accident which occurred to a Sunday School excursion train, on the Northern Pennsylvania road, a year or two since.

A Mormon Cemetery.

The Salt Lake City correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune writes:

I am told that a funeral procession of Mormons is rarely seen. There is a hearse in the city, but it is seldom used. The dead are usually conveyed to burial in a carriage, though sometimes on a bier. A gentleman tells me that one morning while loitering there, he observed a grave dug in the side of one of the swells of ground, and shortly after saw a man enter the cemetery alone, carrying a little coffin on his shoulder, which he proceeded to lay in it. It was the body of one of the man's own children, and the father was too poor to afford any funeral rites.

I rode out yesterday to the cemetery. It is situated just outside the city wall, on the slope of a mountain, about a mile northeast from Brigham Young's house. A cobble-stone wall surrounds it, like the wall of Fort Bridger, or those around Brigham's and Heber's squares. The ground is undulating, and is traversed by one or two deep gullies. The soil is parched and friable, and the only vegetable is a melancholy crop of weeds, conspicuous among which are stunted sunflowers, whose leaves were drooping languidly in the heat of the forenoon. There is not a tree, nor hardly a shrub to enliven the inclosure, which embraces ten acres.

The disproportion of deaths of adults to those of children, which is made a great subject of comment by almost every writer on Mormonism, is especially noticeable. Considerably more than half the inscriptions seems to be to the memory of children under four years of age. Many of them are marked by headstones cut from the same rock from which is quarried the stone used for building the Temple, but four-fifths of them are indicated only by a rough board, on which is scrawled rudely with a pencil or paint, the name and age of the deceased, and a line of poetry or a verse from the Bible. Among all the inscriptions I did not notice a single quotation from the Book of Mormons.

No "Telegraph Plateau" after All.

We had supposed the existence of the "telegraphic plateau" between Newfoundland and Ireland, which has been so much glorified as a wise provision of nature, specially constructed to receive the telegraph cable safely, was an established fact. But we see that it is disputed by some of the best authorities. There are two articles in the last number of the American Journal of Science and Arts that throw doubt on the existence of this plateau. W. P. Trowbridge, assistant engineer in the coast survey, argues in his report to Prof. Bache, that the existence of such a plateau is not proved by any soundings yet made. With the best apparatus yet invented, much uncertainty exists in the determination of the depth of the ocean, where it is near 2,000 fathoms, and below that depth the errors and uncertainties amount to failures. The range of errors in the soundings made between Ireland and Newfoundland is as great as 500 fathoms, which would allow of the existence of submarine mountains half as high as Mount Washington without being discovered. He infers, therefore, that at the bottom of the ocean on the cable route may be as uneven as the surface of northern New England, for all that we know to the contrary. But it is no matter now—plateau or no, the cable is down and it works, whether it is laid solidly in a plain of salt mud, or stretches across from one peak to another of the submarine mountains.

The conclusions of Mr. Trowbridge are sustained by the experience of the persons in charge of laying the cable. The quantity of cable payed out for different distances varied in a manner to be accounted for only by the great inequalities of the bottom of the ocean, and quite irreconcilable with the idea of a grand level plain at the bottom of the ocean.—Springfield (Mass.) Journal.

Melancholy Accident—Two Ladies Drowned.

The Sioux City Register, of last week, contains the following:

"We learn from Swett, of Smithland, that Mrs. Margaret Martin and Miss Nancy Butler (sisters) were drowned in the Little Sioux City at that place, on the 13th inst. The deceased, in company with two other sisters and a number of female friends, were bathing. The four sisters playfully joined hands and advanced into the stream, but had proceeded only a short distance when two of them returned. Scarcely had they turned around until they heard a scream, when looking they beheld their sisters struggling with the current, which rapidly bore them down. They rushed to their aid, and were in turn overpowered by the current, but finally, almost miraculously, affected their escape, while the two above named, who, a moment before, were in the enjoyment of all that makes life happy, sank to rise no more. The body of one of the unfortunate victims was recovered the same evening, and the other the next morning, near the place where the accident occured. Mrs. Martin leaves a husband and two children, one a babe but a few months old. Miss Butler was about seventeen years old. The sad occurrence cast a shadow of melancholy over the whole community, and we deeply sympathise with the bereaved family in their irreparable loss.

Romance and Reality—Wife and Widow in One Week.

The following we copy from the St. Louis Republican of Sunday:

The Board of Health visited the Quarantine Friday, and while there heard a sad story, which may bear repeating: On Thursday, a young man, a native of Maine, whose name, unfortunately is forgotten, died at Quarantine of yellow fever. His wife, a girlish and very handsome woman, not over nineteen years of age, related the following: Her native place is Bordeaux, France, and there she made the acquaintance of the young American whose death she now so grievously laments. An attachment sprung up between them which grew stronger and stronger, until it was resolved, as their hearts were united, to join their hands and pursue together the journey of life.

An unexpected opposition was met in the displeasure of the girl's parents when they heard of the alliance. They argued to her the difference of tastes between the French and the American people, and attempted to prejudice her mind as to the intention of her "Yankee" lover, but to no avail. She plead ed and entreated; they rebuked and expostulated. Yet she was unshaken in that passion which "the more thou dam'st it up the more it burns." At last the lovers resolved on an elopement. They could not be married in France, and so turned their course to America. No opportunity was presented for their union until they arrived, a short time ago, in New Orleans. Here no time was lost, and the cord "that binds two willing hearts" was quickly tied. The prevalence of yellow fever in New Orleans rendered it impossible to remain there, and they took passage at once for St. Louis.

On the boat the new-made husband found he had contracted the very infection from which he was fleeing. He was taken off at Quarantine, just below this city, where, as we have said, he expired on Thursday last. His death, it may easily imagined, is a sore grief to the young wife. She has forfeited parental love by her disobedience to the wishes of her natural protectors, for the sake of the abiding love and trust inspired by the object of her affections. Many miles away from relatives and acquantances, after all her trials and sacrifices, when scarce a wife she is made a widow, and must even depends on charity for the gratification of her commonest wants. The case, though very romantic, is sad.

THE LAFAYETTE ELOPEMENT.—Mr. Allen the husband of the woman who eloped the other day from Lafayette with Sherwood, was recently pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Jeffersonville. On being made acquainted with his wife's perfidy, he sent a letter to his congregation, resigning his pastorate. There are many who sympathize with him in the disgrace which the shameless conduct of his wife has brought upon his household.

It is supposed that the guilty pair have gone to Europe.—Ind. Journal, 7th.

A FATHER AND SON MURDERED IN KENTUCKY.—The Louisville Courier states that some days since, in Washington county, Ky., two men, Henderson and Youcum, made an attack upon a man named Thos. Faris, and in the affray killed Faris' son, the old man escaping for the time. Henderson and Yocum were arrested, and are now in jail in Springfield. On Friday the elder Faris was found in the public road, murdered, not far from his own house. He was shot, and as yet the murderers are undetected.

NOTICE—THE PAST EIGHTEEN MONTHS' experience has given the citizens of Chicago ample proof that the soap process of cleansing gentlemen's clothes will not do, as practised by these inexperienced in the business. The fact of the matter is this, that unless your coats, vests and pants are dyed, cleaned and neatly repaired by men skilled in that vocation, they had far better never be touched at all—but when they are so treated upon by experienced workmen, it is certainly a great saving to the community at large, at the same time conducing much to the bodily comfort. Now, gentlemen, all of you that know the thing, know enough by this time to be fully convinced that the only true and reliable source of having your coats, vests and pants cleaned, neatly repaired and made to look like new, is by COOK & McLAIN'S Chemical process. It certainly does remove every spot of grease, paint, wax and tar, together with all blemishes and impurities to which such garments are liable. The spots are warranted not to reappear, as a beautiful finished lustre is put on as when first new.

Gentlemen, call at COOK & McLAIN'S and look at specimens of their coat dressing. If they fail to please you no charge will be made.

LIGHT!! MORE LIGHT!!
EVERY FAMILY THEIR OWN GAS MAKER.
NO CHEMICAL HUMBUG.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVE MADE EXtensive arrangements for supplying any store, public house or private dwelling in the city or suburbs with

J. W. Smith's New Patent Gas Generator.

By means of this exceedingly simple, cheap and convenient arrangement, any family can have, at a cost not to exceed one-fourth the cost of the city gas, a gas far more brilliant and white, and not at all offensive. This is none of the chemical humbugs with which the country is flooded, but genuine Gas, manufactured by means of a simple arrangement (lately patented) made to attach to any gas pipe, to be used with ordinary gas burners.

THINGS YOU WILL AVOID BY USING THIS GAS.
1st—Three-fourths of all expense.
2d—All offensive odor.
3d—Uncertain and poor light.
4th—The annoyance of defective metres, monthly bills, advance deposits, &c.

The following are among the many certificates we have from those using this Gas:

Washington City, D. C., July 1st, 1858.

This may certify that we have been using John W. Smith's Portable Gas Generator, to light our store, which has 14 burners, using from 5 to 6 feet per hour to each burner, making the gas every night as we want it. We find this new invention to be a valuable one. For economy, safety and brilliancy it by far exceeds every other light now extant. Our gas bill from the Gas Company in this city averaged $28 per month, when this (Smith's) Gas has not cost over $4 or $5 amonth, and producing a much stronger and purer light. Our experience with it since the 1st of February last warrants us in recommending it to all that may wish a cheap and safe light.

E. TUCKER & BRO., Pennsylvania avenue.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—The undersigned are now using in their store, 74 State street, one of J. W. Smith's Portable Gas Generators, and from experiments carefully made by us we are well satisfied that the cost of gas made by this apparatus will not exceed one-fourth the expense of the city gas for an equal number of burners, the capacity of the burners being equal. The light is also whiter and more brilliant, and without offensive odor. The apparatus is exceedingly simple and cheap, and the process of making the gas within the comprehension of the most ordinary mind, all of which facts we shall be happy to demonstrate to any person who may wish, by their calling at our store, 74 State street, at any time between eight o'clock A. M. and nine o'clock P. M. BEECHER & POWELL.

KENOSHA WATER CURE.

THIS INSTITUTION IS FOUNDED UPON the principle of using "Nature's Remedies" in the cure of disease, and so instructing patients in their use that they may not only regain but maintain health.

The location of the CURE is eminently adapted for the purpose, being situated in one of the most pleasant cities of the West, which for health, pure air and water, cannot be surpassed.

Our Rooms and Bathing conveniences are well arranged for the comfort of Patients, and no pains will be spared to make their stay agreeable.

A Gymnasium and Bowling Alley are in connection with the Institution.

We would call the attention of the afflicted to a new remedy, the

Electro Chemical Baths,

Which we have introduced into this CURE. By the use of these Baths, all extraneous minerals (as mercury, lead, &c.,) are extracted from the system, and some of the most distressing maladies that humanity is subject to are entirely cured, such as Scrofula, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Ulcers, Neuralgia, and Nervous diseases generally. Persons who have worked in Paints, or taken mercury or mineral medicine of any kind, will do well to test these Baths.

The terms of this Institution are $6 to $9 per week—payable weekly.

Invalids will bring six crash towels, two cotton or linen sheets, a flannel blanket and two comfortables.

Those desiring home treatment, will inclose $3 to

HOP YEAST.

ATTENTION HOUSEKEEPERS.—Knowing the difficulty of getting Good Yeast in this city and county, the undersigned has commenced the manufacture of Hop Yeast in Chicago. It is put up in the form of a dry cake and is known as the "New England Dry Hop Yeast Cake." They may be had of any respectable Grocer in this city, and towns in this and adjoining states. By using these cakes and keeping them on hand, you can in two minutes time have a cup of fresh yeast and at an expense of one penny.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING.—Break a cake into a cup of blood warm water—it will dissolve in two minutes—then make your sponge and set it to rise over night. Knead your dough well and keep it warm until ready for the oven and you will have better bread than with any other yeast. One cake is sufficient for three quarts of flour. Retail price, 1 shilling for a package of 12 cakes, or $1.25 for a gross box.

Inquire of your grocer for the New England Dry Hop Yeast Cake, and take nothing else if you would have good raised bread. If he has not got it ask him to get it for you. Manufactory on State street, one door north of Shawmut mills, Chicago, Ill. P. O. address Box 3134. Grocers orders promptly filled whether in city or country.

COMMERCIAL.

Commercial and Money Matters.

FRIDAY EVENING, September 10.

MONEY, EXCHANGE, &c.—The quotations for the money market have not varied in any particular for the past few days. Exchange is steady at 1 per cent. Bank discounts 10 per cent. as usual. Money plenty for produce and other business purposes that are strictly legitimate. Gold sells only in small lots at 1@1¼ per cent. premium. Street rates for money are nominal, at 1½@2 per cent. per month. Very little money changing hands at these or any other figures. We should think, however, that long loans on real property at 10 per cent., are rather more frequent. They are mostly made on eastern account by agents in this city.

COMMERCIAL. Elsewhere is given the main portion, so far as our Western grain merchants are interested, of the review of the British grain trade, from the Mark Lane Express of the 23d ult. From the same paper we ascertain that the Paris flour market had been calm, without much change in price, the want of water encouraging millers to hold at prices scarcely justified by the state of the Wheat trade.

Our grain market has passed through another [illegible] day. On 'change there was a further decline in prices, but much less excitement; and on the whole less depreciation than was apprehended.

On the opening of business, Red Winter No. 1 in store, did not vary from yesterday's lowest figures, but held up firmly to $1.05c; No. 2 brought 96c in store, being a shade better for the seller; rejected R. W. changed hands at 75c in store. Spring No. 2, fresh receipts, began at 72c in store, being a little better than closing rates last night; but by-and-by it passed down to 69c; the majority of sales in that grade, however, were at 70c. Towards the close of the forenoon's business, it rested heavily at 69c in store; and we heard of a sale at 68c, but could not verify it. One small lot of Spring No. 2, fresh receipts, brought 73c in course of the forenoon; and 2,000 bu more, for next week's delivery, brought 75c. One parcel of "stump tailed," 67c in store—being 3c lower than yesterday's price. Although, to-day, decline is well-marked, the fluctuation is not so great. The sales foot up to 30,000, or about one half the transactions of yesterday.

Corn may be said to be a little firmer; and more sold to-day. One lot of No. 1 brought 57c f. o. b.; and another lot of 15,000 bu the same price, for Tuesday next. A parcel of cleaned Railroad No. 1, also brought 57c f. o. b. The remainder of transactions toward the close were in small lots at 54@55c in store. The aggregate sales are some 36,000 bu, nearly doubling those of yesterday.

There were some transactions in oats, at our quotations—market quiet.

We have no sale in barley to report; within the last two or three days the receipts of it by railroad have been increasing.

Flour inactive and dull—few buyers in market; we note sales elsewhere.

Freights are dull again and very few charters making; we report but one to day for wheat to Oswego. The principal shipments are corn; the wheat shipped on 8th was a little over 15,000 bu; on the 9th there were 32,000 bu.—See specification below. Until there is a fair margin between our own and Eastern markets, shipments will be less than the exigency requires; but both East and West, grain values are so much unsettled at this moment that it is difficult to determine whether or not such margin yet exists. The New York telegram to the Board of Trade to-day, indicated flour lower, Extra $5.35@$5 50. Wheat heavy. Corn firmer; mixed 66@73c. Oats heavy. This is sufficiently vague, to prevent any one knowing whether the decline is nearly ended, or how much longer it is to continue.

The subjoined items will afford a comprehensive view of the prospects and condition of the European and continental market:

The late sudden decline in Belgium had settled into calm, on good arrivals of wheat, chiefly from France, with many vessels of rye and oats from Russia and England. For want of buyers the latter were going to granary at Antwerp, but it was thought the least demand would revive prices.

The business in grain at Amsterdam was extremely limited; but sellers of wheat and rye not pressing, the rates were nominally unchanged. Rotterdam noted a decided decline.

No further advance was noted at Danzic, but good sales of wheat were made at former rates.

A return of fine weather, with great heat, at Berlin, had diminished the late fears for the gathering of the C[illegible] the safety of the late Potatoes. Since the [illegible], prices have been calming down, a slight reaction being experienced daily.

Cologne, under the influence of foreign advices, was easier for wheat and other grain.

The Swiss and Bavarian markets continued fluctuating.

At Manheim, the late speculative inquiry having secured good stores in granary, the only article in request was flour, the mills generally having been stopped for want of water.

Wheat, at Groningen, had been in less demand, and prices in buyers' favor.

After all the fears that were once entertained, in consequence of drought, for the crop of Maize in Italy, the late rains have brought about such a change that an extraordinary abundance is in prospect. This circumstance, and the holding out of the old crop of Wheat, together with plentiful supplies of new, have made dull markets, and, were it not for the determination of holders of foreign to store their arrived cargoes, a fall in prices must have ensued; but the unfavorable news from the Sea of Azoff induced this course; prices, therefore, in Genoa were little altered.

Further accounts of the crop in Spain confirm the previous estimate, that Castile has had, with some exceptions, an ordinary average. The hot weather turning some of the French Flour sour at Santander, a better demand sprung up for the home manufactured article at full prices, 43s 6d per English sack being still paid, with every appearance of firmness.

Arrivals still being light at Algiers, prices were supported.

REVIEW OF BRITISH GRAIN MARKET FOR WEEK ENDING AUG 23, 1858.

[From the Mark Lane Express.]

The past week, like its predecessor, was not without rain, but not in sufficient quantities to occasion any serious hindrance to the prosecution of harvest work. Should the next be fine, the bulk of the crops in the southern and midland counties will have been gathered. The markets generally have been poorly supplied, and thinly attended; the new crop being less in favor, and samples of old rather more in request, with but little difference from former quotations. With our own yield as yet doubtful, and foreign advices on the whole unfavorable, it does not seem probable that those holders who have had the courage to keep in stock with fine qualities of old up to the present time, will now force them off when good foreign is not very plentiful in granary, and our prices are relatively cheaper than the place of growth. The new Barley does not at present realize the moderate expectations formed of its quality, a large proportion being thin, steely and unfit for malting, for want of sufficient moisture in the time of growth.

We are not yet prepared to give a particular estimate of the several crops; but hope to present it when nearer to maturity. Should Wheat turn out an average, after what we have heard from large growers in different districts, it will be quite as much as we expect, and even then will make a larger importation necessary than seems probable at present rates.

With good weather abroad, there has been a [illegible] decline in the near continental markets, with calmness in the Baltic. Firmer advices come from America, as the yield in the Southern States has been so much over-stated, that a scarcity of samples already appears at Baltimore and other places. This must diminish supplies at New York; the Northern States, however, are more favorably spoken of. The new submarine telegraph, when brought into use, we think will be more likely to keep up prices in America than induce more liberal shipments, as our transatlantic kinsmen will not be slack to turn early information to their own account.

The Wheat trade in London on Monday commenced after a week's moderate supplies. From Kent and Essex the samples in the course of the morning were not numerous, consisting mostly of the new crop. The weather having been very fine, with the exception of some rather sharp thunder-storms, millers were careless buyers, and only a few of the best lots were taken at previous rates; the bulk, though only a moderate quantity, being left undisposed of. The business in foreign was very small, but factors were indisposed to lower prices.

Of country Flour the supply on Monday was limited, the foreign consisting of a moderate quantity of American. Norfolks, notwithstanding the small quantity arrived, could only be disposed of by taking 1s per sack less money. French and American samples were dull.

The stock of old English Barley being exhausted, and very little new or foreign appearing, Monday's market brought small additions to the grain. The few samples of new not being fine enough to attract the notice of maltsters, second sorts went off heavily; but low grinding foreign being relatively cheap as compared with Oats, sold slowly, but quite as dear.

In Scotland the weather has mostly been favorable. Wheat and Flour were in moderate demand at Glasgow, especially choice American.

The good crop of Potatoes in Ireland had much diminished the demand for Maize, and the favorable harvest weather made markets very quiet.

Albany Cattle Market—Sept. 6.

The following is a statement of the number of live stock received via Central Railroad, for the week ending this day:

Cattle	4,016
Sheep	3,3[illegible]6
Fat Hogs	2,680
Store Hogs	340

At West's drove yards, West Albany, there were yarded 2,700 cattle, quality not so good as last week, a few lots, however, [illegible] selling readily at $4.40 to 4.60 [illegible] live weight, in consequence of the large arrivals, together with over 500 held over. The other grades were not in brisk demand at 3½ to 4½c; some good lots, 1,150 steers sold at 4c, and no takers, the Eastern folk not buying as largely as usual.

Sheep are arriving freely, and the market is overstocked, the offerings for the week are 2,700, some of which have been to New York and back. No doubt their pasture trip to the metropolis has improved their quality, but buyers here do not seem to appreciate it; sales from $2 to 3.75 per head, or 3⅛c per lb live weight.

Fat Hogs are in fair demand; 2000 offered, and most all sold at 4⅞c to 5⅛c. No sale for Store Hogs.

Estimate of cattle:

COL. BENTON'S ABRIDGMENT OF THE DEBATES OF CONGRESS.

IT EMBRACES THE PERIOD OF JOHN Quincy Adams's Administration, and consequently continues the celebrated debate on the proposed representatives to the proposed Diplomatic Congress at Panama. In this the whole question of International law, and of the proper relations and conditions of this country with the Spanish States of this Continent, that are again arising in the proposed abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and in kindred subjects, were discussed by some of the ablest statesmen that this country has produced. Among the Debaters on this occasion may be noted such men as Mr. Clay, Mr. Webster, Levi Woodbury, White of Tennessee, Randolph, Edward Livingston, Van Buren, [illegible]... The speech of Col. Benton on this occasion was pronounced by Mr. Randolph "the ablest that had been delivered in Congress since John Marshall's speech in the Jonathan Robbins case." In our annals.

Price per vol., in Cloth: $3 00 Law Sheep; $4 00 half Calf.

The Abridgement of the Debates will be completed in 15 vols., 750 pages each, covering the whole period contained in over one hundred volumes. A complete, accurate and convenient compendium of the debates. Subscription [illegible].

EYE AND EAR.

DR. UNDERWOOD,

FORMERLY OF THE EYE AND EAR Infirmary of Louisville, Ky., and more recently Physician and Surgeon to the Eye and Ear Infirmary, Columbus, Ohio, and author of a "New System of Treating Diseases of the Eye and Ear without the use of the Knife," would announce that he has permanently established an Infirmary in the city of Chicago, Illinois, at SEVENTY-THREE South Clark street, where he will remain in order to afford to those afflicted with diseases of the Eye and Ear, an opportunity of being treated by a system which is entirely new, perfectly safe, and has never been known to fail in effecting permanent cures, especially in all cases of Opthalmia (or inflammation of the eye) whether acute or chronic, whether catarrhal, purulent, scrofulous, or rheumatic. It will also remove all Opacities of the Cornea, whether of a nebulous or albuginous character, or any other abnormal scum, film, or extraneous substance, from the sight of the Eye. The new mode of treatment has never failed of curing Pterygium, Staphyloma and Amaurosis, and has even succeeded in removing Cataract from the Eye, whether Capsular or Lenticular, in a great majority of cases, without the use of the knife or needle.

He has been equally successful in his treatment of Diseases of the Ear, with his new system. For skill and success in his profession, the Doctor directs those interested to the following well known citizens of Columbus, Ohio: Capt. E. M. Lilley, Judge Rankin, Capt. Wm. Willis, Rev. Dr. Hulburd, of the Presbyterian Church; and the following members of the Ohio Legislature: Hon. Dr. Flower of Perry county, Hon. Patrick Thompson of Coshocton county, Hon. Mr. Johnson of Hocking, Hon. J. A. Bell of Medina county; all of whom are personally acquainted with the Doctor's success.

No charge made for an examination and opinion. Patients at a distance, can have medicines and directions sent to them by giving a minute description of their cases. mh25'58-1
